MOSCOW (AP) — Cosmonaut Georgy Beregovoy and the Soviet space ship Soyuz 3 returned to earth today after nearly four days in orbit during which they set no records and apparently scored no breakthroughs for the Soviet space program.

Tass said the spaceship made a soft landing where it was supposed to in the Soviet Union but did not give the exact location. Beregovoy "feels well," said the Soviet news agency, and was met by "friends and correspondents in the area where he landed."

"Cosmonaut Georgy Beregovoy successfully completed the program of scientific and technical research," Tass said.

The 47-year-old cosmonaut's flight was the first manned flight in 18 months for the Soviet Union, but it set no records and no technical breakthrough was announced.

Beregovoy was launched into space last Saturday morning and began a tandem flight around the earth in the wake of the unmanned spacecraft Soyuz 2, which had been launched the day before.

Before Soyuz 2 was brought down for a soft landing on Monday, Beregovoy made two approaches to the unmanned craft, but if he tried to link up, this was not announced.

A Soviet scientist writing in Pravda Monday said the purpose of the flight was to

Beggars' Nite, Parade Set For Thursday

Annual Halloween Parade, sponsored by Circleville Jaycees and Chamber of Commerce, will be held beginning 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

Mayor Richard L. Gerhardt noted that Thursday has also been dubbed "Beggars' Night" for the city. Parents are urged to accompany small children as they make their door-to-door "trick or treat" journeys.

The parade will form at the police station, Franklin and Court Sts., and conclude at the armory where judging will be held.

Cash prizes will be given in three categories of three age groups with one grand prize. Refreshments will also be served to all participants at the armory.

'Wrong Way' Signs Readied

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Highway Director P. E. Masheter has approved new regulatory highway signs to warn motorists who might possibly become confused and make wrong turns at interchanges on one-way streets.

Red and white "wrong way" signs will soon appear on selected freeway interchanges and some one-way streets in the Cleveland area where there is a possibility wrong-way turns could be made from cross streets.

The highway department said several of the new signs will be posted at selected interchanges on Interstates 271, 90 and 77.

Mother To Face Trial In Death

XENIA, Ohio (AP) — Xenia police today filed a second degree manslaughter charge against 23-year-old Elizabeth Hensley of Xenia in the death last Friday of her two-year-old daughter Michelle.

The child was dead on arrival at a hospital and autopsy report listed cause of death as a fractured skull and internal injuries. The coroner's office ruled homicide in the death. The mother claimed her daughter suffered the injuries in a fall.

Slovak Crowd Boos Russians At Bratislava

10,000 Break Police Lines During Protest

BRATISLAVA, Czechoslovakia (AP) — Slovaks in Bratislava emulated Prague's Czechs Tuesday night and roamed their city's streets shouting "Russians go home" and "Brezhnev boo boo boo."

The anti-Soviet demonstrations erupted after 10,000 cheering, chanting Slovaks broke through police lines in a wild greeting for the nation's liberal Communist leaders, visiting the capital of Slovakia for the local celebration of Czechoslovakia's 50th anniversary.

A similar demonstration in Prague Monday night against the Soviet occupation brought a warning from Deputy Interior Minister Jan Mayer that the police were determined to "maintain public order."

But police and militiamen failed to stop the marching Slovaks shouting anti-Soviet slogans.

Led by a man carrying a sign with the French word "Liberte," the column moved through Bratislava, singing the national anthem and lighting candles as memorials at half a dozen places where Slovaks were killed during the Soviet invasion last August.

Earlier, tens of thousands of Slovaks wildly applauded the arrival of President Ludvik Svoboda and Communist party chief Alexander Dubcek, the latter a Slovak. The crowd mobbed the railroad station as their eight-car train pulled in, forcing an honor guard and a band to retreat without playing a note.

Lined 40 or 50 deep on each side of the street, Slovaks chanted "Long live Dubcek" and "Long live Svoboda" as a motorcade took the leaders to the Slovak National Council building. Dubcek and Svoboda waved briefly from a balcony when youths climbed trees around the building and yelled for them to appear.

Frosty Chill Hangs Over Eastern U.S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A frosty chill stung wide areas of the East and South today while unseasonably mild weather fanned through much of the western half of the country.

The mercury slid to freezing or below again from the Great Lakes into Alabama, Georgia and the Carolinas. Anniston, Ala., and Macon, Ga., registered 32 and 31, respectively, in Charleston, S.C.

Light snow flurries dusted parts of the eastern Great Lakes region.

In contrast, the Plains and Rockies remained in the 40s and 50s overnight after a day of record warmth in the 70s and 80s. The temperature soared to 81 at Rapid City, S.D., Tuesday and to 80 at Billings, Mont.

A Pacific storm which lashed coastal sections of Washington, Oregon and northern California through Tuesday moved inland and lost some of its punch. Winds that reached gusts near 100 miles an hour along the southwestern Oregon coast tapered off to 60 miles an hour Tuesday night.

Communist Leaders Shot In Indonesia

JAKARTA (AP) — Three Communist leaders of an abortive 1965 coup were shot by firing squads at dawn Tuesday, bringing to seven the number of Communist leaders executed for their part in the attempt to seize power in Indonesia.

Ten other leaders of the coup attempt, including ousted President Sukarno's deputy premier and foreign minister, Dr. Subandrio, are awaiting execution. All were sentenced to death by special military courts.

Christian could not comment further than the military review statement, and the word went out from the White House to the Pentagon to say nothing.

It was certain, however, that Johnson and Abrams talked about the lull in the Vietnam fighting and its possible significance.

Politicos In Final Sweep Over Ohio

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Republican and Democratic presidential candidates, apparently considering Ohio's 26 electoral votes as crucial to victory, are hitting the state at least one more time before election day next Tuesday.

Republican Richard M. Nixon arrives in Cleveland this afternoon for an 8 p.m. rally at Public Hall.

Democrat Hubert H. Humphrey campaigns in Youngstown Saturday.

Preceding Humphrey into Ohio will be his running mate, Sen. Edmund Muskie of Maine, who will be in Cincinnati tonight and addresses a rally in Cleveland Thursday.

Meanwhile, the hot contest for the U.S. Senate continued with both candidates pledging to work for a better society.

Democrat John J. Gilligan said in Centerville today that "unless the people take back control of government by demanding true representation, we will have government by the few for the few."

He said he would assure the people of true representation in Washington by establishing five fulltime district offices in Ohio, where anyone can register a "point of view, complaint or a suggestion."

Gilligan's Republican opponent, William B. Saxbe, said in Cleveland Tuesday that "the American dream can only come true" if the country's leaders understand "that progress, not politics, must be their first concern."

Queen Opens Parliament

LONDON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II opened a new session of Parliament today with a government pledge of votes for 18-year-olds.

It was the showpiece of a modest government program of offering youth, Scotland and Wales more control over their lives.

The Labor government moved boldly in promising votes at 18, a move recommended by an official commission but rejected by an all-party conference of legislators which wanted to lower it, from 21 to 20. The act would add an estimated three million voters to the rolls.

The government also pledged to lower the legal age of majority from 21 to 18, allowing young people to sign contracts without parental consent. This is a popular move in Britain, where the large majority of teen-agers go out to work between the ages of 15 and 17, and not to college like their American counterparts.

The rest of the queen's speech represented a restatement of past policies and earlier pledges.

Abrams In Secret U.S. Trip; White House Keep Silence

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Creighton W. Abrams Jr., U.S. commander in Vietnam, has paid a supersecret call on the White House in the midst of stepped efforts to de-escalate the war. But a White House spokesman says the visit does not mean there has been breakthrough toward peace.

News Secretary George Christian would not go beyond saying that Abrams' session with President Johnson, which wasn't announced until after the general had left to return to Vietnam Tuesday, was a "general military review."

However, sources in Saigon said Abrams had been ordered to Washington to give the President his views on what effect a bombing halt of North Vietnam would have on the war situation. Abrams' visit, his first known return to the United States since just before he took command last March, sparked immediate speculation of some new development in Johnson's current peace drive.

Christian could not comment further than the military review statement, and the word went out from the White House to the Pentagon to say nothing.

It was certain, however, that Johnson and Abrams talked about the lull in the Vietnam fighting and its possible significance.

4-Year-Old Boy Drowns In Pit

DROWNING — Deputy Sheriffs Richard Clark (left) and George Linder (right) show coroner Dr. Ray Carroll the spot where 4-year-old David Conrad slipped and fell into a pit filled with water. The youth's body was recovered by the deputies at 12:50 p.m. today.

The body of a four year old boy was recovered from a 9-foot deep pit recently dug at the Wolfe and West construction lot on E. Ohio St.

The youth was identified as David Conrad, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Conrad, who live just behind the construction lot.

THE pit had been dug recently as a dump for unused concrete, the deputies were told. It was nearly filled with water. The youngster had apparently been playing on a large pile of dirt at the edge of the pit. The earth gave way and the boy fell into the water.

Pickaway County Coroner Ray Carroll viewed the body at the scene of the drowning.

The body was taken to Defenbaugh Funeral Home.

SENECA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — Dwight D. Eisenhower says he wrote off as "improbable" the thought that he might reach the venerable age of 78.

The former president made the observation in a letter to students at Eisenhower College, a four-year liberal arts institution that opened its doors this fall.

Eisenhower wrote: "Despite the formidable number of years I have been marking Oct. 14th as an annual milestone, each birthday has at least one new and fresh element in the letters and messages I receive. This year it was the greetings from you, the charter class of Eisenhower College."

The youngster was missed by his parents at about 11 a.m. today.

His body was recovered from the hole at 12:55 p.m. by Pickaway County Deputy Sheriffs George Linder and Richard Clark.

HARRIMAN during the meeting repeated the U.S. offer to quit South Vietnam as North Vietnamese forces pull out and to aid the economic development of North Vietnam after a peace agreement. Thuy called this "the policy of the carrot and the stick" and rejected it.

Harriman told newsmen he had asked the Hanoi delegates for "a reduction of hostilities and a move toward a settlement of the problem of peace."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Behind the "Vote Humphrey" sign he has hoisted belatedly, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy still waves the banner of revolt against the Democratic party.

In announcing his preference for Democrat Hubert H. Humphrey over Republican Richard M. Nixon, McCarthy made it clear he expects the "children's crusade" of the spring primary campaign to continue beyond Tuesday's presidential election.

Many of those from colleges and high schools who did volunteer work for McCarthy in the primaries, still are too young to vote.

But the Minnesota senator obviously believes as time goes on they will continue to look at him as a leader who offers youth a voice in future national decisions.

Hanoi Rips U.S. Stand As 'Politics'

PARIS (AP) — The chief North Vietnamese delegate to the Vietnam peace talks charged today that U.S. proposals for a bombing halt "are meant for the presidential election campaign." He called again for an unconditional halt in the bombing of his country.

Ambassador Xuan Thuy spoke to newsmen following the 28th sessions of the Paris talks, a 90-minute meeting that was the shortest since the talks began May 13.

U.S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman told newsmen before the meeting that "as far as I am concerned, the election is not entering into discussions here in any shape, form or manner. We have been dealing with the problems of peace for the American people and that's the only thought we have."

Joint U.S., Saigon Stand Thought Near

SAIGON (AP) — American fighter-bombers kept up their heavy raids across North Vietnam's southern panhandle today amid growing speculation that President Johnson's peace offensive is approaching some sort of climax.

Unconfirmed reports circulated that U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker and President Nguyen Van Thieu were preparing a joint statement in which the South Vietnamese government would at least accept a halt in the bombing of North Vietnam.

Despite the reports and speculation, senior U.S. officers said they had no indication that an immediate bombing halt might be in the works. One knowledgeable military source said:

"As far as we're concerned, we're planning air strikes way up ahead, but that doesn't say we can't cut out the bombing tomorrow. They were sure charging out today. It's business as usual."

While U.S. jets were striking North Vietnamese supply routes, Thieu told newsmen in CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A space capsule which landed on the Ft. Gordon military reservation in Georgia Tuesday was not launched in a project sponsored by Case Western Reserve University here, a university spokesman said today.

It was reported that the capsule was launched at 9 p.m. Monday from Palestine, Tex., by the National Atmospheric Research Center in a project sponsored by the university.

Prof. Glenn Frye, professor of physics at Case Western Reserve, has been conducting cosmic ray studies with a device known as a spark chamber launched by balloon by the research center to a height of about five miles.

The university spokesman said that the last launching in the project was early in September and that all gondolas in the project have been recovered.

Lt. Ed Sears, a public information officer at Ft. Gordon, said the device landing there parachuted to earth shortly after 6 a.m. Tuesday in an open field near the Military Police school.

He said it crossed some power lines, causing two explosions that knocked out power in the area for a few minutes.

Blood Donors Needed For Thursday Visit

The Central Ohio Red Cross Blood Center recently reported that Pickaway County is one of 18 member groups that is fully eligible for benefits under the American Red Cross blood program based on the last 12 months performance.

However, local officials point out that the first nine months of this year have been disappointing, particularly the two summer visits of the Bloodmobile.

As it now stands, a spokesman of the program said, the residents of our county will lose their eligibility for benefits under this program at the end of 1968 unless a total of at least 182 donors participate in the next two visits.

The spokesman continued to say that the situation is aggravated by the fact that one of the two remaining visits is Dec. 24. Therefore the majority of donors must be obtained during Thursday's visit of the Bloodmobile at the Methodist Church.

A successful blood program means first and most important blood will be available for those who need it in critical situations. Secondly, all residents of Pickaway County, whether donors or not, will be eligible to receive American Red Cross blood at no charge at virtually all hospitals in the United States.

All residents of Pickaway County are urged to participate in the next Bloodmobile visit to Circleville, on Thursday 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Community United Methodist Church.

McCarthy Still In Revolt Against Democratic Party

WASHINGTON (AP) — Behind the "Vote Humphrey" sign he has hoisted belatedly, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy still waves the banner of revolt against the Democratic party.

In announcing his preference for Democrat Hubert H. Humphrey over Republican Richard M. Nixon, McCarthy made it clear he expects the "children's crusade" of the spring primary campaign to continue beyond Tuesday's presidential election.

Many of those from colleges and high schools who did volunteer work for McCarthy in the primaries, still are too young to vote.

But the Minnesota senator obviously believes as time goes on they will continue to look at him as a leader who offers youth a voice in future national decisions.

With this in mind, McCarthy seems to have cleared the way for an effort at "reform of the political process within the Democratic party" by announcing that he will not be a candidate of that party for re-election to the Senate in 1970 or for its 1972 presidential nomination.

This has the double political benefit of presenting himself as something of a crusader to his followers and of muting criticism that he only wants to reform the nominating process in order to make it easier for him to grab off the prize four years from now.

He noted in the formal statement endorsing Humphrey that he had urged the young people and others who supported his unsuccessful bid for the presidential nomination this year "to test the established political processes of the Democratic party."

But he added that "I will not make that request of them again unless those processes have clearly been changed."

Was this a third party threat? McCarthy wouldn't say.

Beggars' Nite, Parade Set For Thursday

Annual Halloween Parade, sponsored by Circleville Jaycees and Chamber of Commerce, will be held beginning 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

Mayor Richard L. Gerhardt noted that Thursday has also been dubbed "Beggars' Night" for the city. Parents are urged to accompany small children as they make their door-to-door "trick or treat" journeys.

The parade will form at the police station, Franklin and Court Sts., and conclude at the armory where judging will be held.

Cash prizes will be given in three categories of three age groups with one grand prize. Refreshments will also be served to all participants at the armory.

'Wrong Way' Signs Readied

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Highway Director P. E. Masheter has approved new regulatory highway signs to warn motorists who might possibly become confused and make wrong turns at interchanges on one-way streets.

Red and white "wrong way" signs will soon appear on selected freeway interchanges and some one-way streets in the Cleveland area where there is a possibility wrong-way turns could be made from cross streets.

The highway department said several of the new signs will be posted at selected interchanges on Interstates 271, 90 and 77.

Mother To Face Trial In Death

XENIA, Ohio (AP)—Xenia police today filed a second degree manslaughter charge against 28-year-old Elizabeth Hensley of Xenia in the death last Friday of her two-year-old daughter Michelle.

The child was dead on arrival at a hospital and autopsy report listed cause of death as a fractured skull and internal injuries. The coroner's office ruled homicide in the death. The mother claimed her daughter suffered the injuries in a fall.

Experience Counts

Pickaway Countians will vote in the new 15th U.S. Congressional District at their respective polling places on Tuesday.

Formerly part of the Sixth District represented by William H. Harsha Jr., Pickaway County has been grouped with western Franklin County and all of Madison County to create the new political subdivision.

Representation of the new district in Congress will be no easy task since a major metropolitan area, its suburbs and rural areas are within the district's boundaries. It will take a man of experience, devotion and integrity to serve all these peoples' needs.

The Herald is of the opinion these qualities exist in Chalmers P. Wylie. Congressman Wylie has served on various House committees and subcommittees including the House Republican Task Force on crime, House Committee on Banking and Currency, subcommittees on Small Business, Consumer Affairs, Bank Supervision and Insurance.

Congressman Wylie is a former Columbus City attorney, Assistant Attorney General and Assistant to the Governor. A graduate of Ohio State and Harvard Universities, Wylie spent his early life in the villages of Norwich and Pataskala.

Many other attributes, from working his way through college to medals earned during World War II, combined with his background and experience in Congress merit our endorsement.

We urge you to vote on Tuesday and vote for experience — vote for Chalmers P. Wylie to represent the 15th U.S. Congressional District.

Laff-A-Day

"I was just thinking... what would we do if we had to go to a masquerade party?"

According To Boyle

By JOY STILLEY (For Hal Boyle)

NEW YORK (AP) — Have you sent out your Halloween cards yet? Better hurry and get them in the mail because almost before the ink is dry on the envelopes you'll have to start addressing your Thanksgiving cards.

At one time all I had to do to meet my social obligations was to dispatch Christmas and birthday cards to my friends. For remembering anniversaries I got extra points.

Now you can find greeting cards for every occasion, plus an occasional card for which there is no occasion. As long as the stamps and the writing arm hold out, you can send sentiments covering all eventualities. There are offerings appropriate for everything from extending sympathy to an invalid laid up with a broken small toe on the left foot to those congratulating the lucky guy who won the office football pool.

In between are cards saying hello, goodbye, thinking of you, have a good trip, good luck in your new apartment, why aren't you thinking of me? take me along, welcome back, missing you, congratulations on the new car, please write, to a secret pal, good luck as you start your new job, good luck as you leave your old job.

These are around all the time, but in season you'll have your pick of sweet, sentimental, sick, nasty and humorous cards commemorating every holiday from Easter around the calendar to groundhog day.

Birthday wishes are strictly categorized—you don't just pick one that says "Happy Birthday" and let it go at that. There are special ones for mothers, fathers, husbands, wives, aunts, nieces, nephews, cousins, godchildren, friends, friends of friends, mothers of teachers, bosses and members of the office typing pool.

Others are available for those whose natal day coincides with your own, who were born on a holiday or who are twins. It isn't on display, but I'm sure my neighborhood stationery store has a "Best Wishes to the quintuplets" card tucked away in some rack.

With everything already said in print, letter writing will soon go out of style. So far I haven't come across a card that says, "I'm fine; send money," but when they get that one in production college bookstores will have a best seller.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — An inability to understand the admonition to "know thyself" is playing tricks with the immediate future of all Americans and bringing to grief our best laid plans.

The problem involves Americans as consumers. The failure is in being unable to accept the fact that today's consumer is a changing personality, in some respects unrelated to his ancestors.

He is wealthier, better educated, has a bank account and enormous credit facilities at his service. Above all he has more options. Whereas once he purchased to fill his needs, now he buys to satisfy his tastes as well.

He has, therefore, become far less predictable than the consumer of a few decades ago who often lived a hand-to-mouth existence. He can postpone or advance his purchases. He can dip into savings. He can obtain credit.

His purchases depend not just on ability but on willingness to buy, as has been stressed for years now by George Katona of the University of Michigan, a pioneer in consumer studies.

Not only has the consumer become less predictable, he has become a much larger factor in the economy. Although this is well known, the combination still seems to have dismayed the Federal Reserve, the best economic brains in the federal establishment and hundreds of university economists.

As we now know, the consumer cut his rate of savings from near 7.5 per cent take home pay to about 6.25 per cent in recent months and thus added to the economic boom about the same amount taken out by a tax increase.

It wasn't supposed to be that way. The consumer was supposed to retrench, as he did in the past. He was supposed to lower his living standard a bit, do without luxuries, cut back until it was safe to come out again.

Because he didn't, the tax policy of the world's strongest economy was aborted, at least in timing. Perhaps the surtax will make its effects felt soon, but it has been delayed months and that's a big, costly error.

The tendency of even highly regarded economists to believe the consumer will react in predictable ways is rooted in the teaching of John Maynard Keynes, a British economist of the 1930s, and those who developed his theories.

Much of the New Era economists were weaned on Keynes, who contended that what the consumer spent depended on income, that there was a stable ratio of spending to income. This also meant a stable savings rate.

Events of the past few months have disproved this contention.

North Vietnamese Jittery?

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

If the U.S. were to accept a cease-fire with the North Vietnamese that lets the Vietcong get an influential position in any post-war coalition in Saigon, do any of our more innocent New Leftists know what the consequences would be?

A report currently being passed around on State Department levels in Washington, and presumably to our negotiator Averell Harriman in Paris, could tell the innocents much if they still have the capacity to read. The document in question is a translation of the monitored text of revolutionary leader Truong Chinh's words to his North Vietnamese comrades on the occasion of Karl Marx's 150th birthday anniversary. In its implications Truong Chinh's outline for a South Vietnamese take-over is pretty horrendous. It pays lip service to the possibility that there might be a peaceful transition to socialism in South Vietnam once the U.S. "imperialists" are out of the country. But the hope for peace would depend entirely on the "bourgeoisie" rolling over and playing dead.

As is always the case with a convinced Marxist revolutionary, the language used by Truong Chinh bores the non-Marxist reader almost to extinction. "Dialectical" cliché is piled on cliché. But beneath the beat of the phrases about "feudal exploiters" and the "national democratic people's revolution," there sounds the ominous call to slaughter of anyone who might own more than a few hectares of land or a bank account capable of sustaining a middle-sized clothing store.

What Truong Chinh is telling the Vietcong as well as his own North Vietnamese cadres is that there can be no peace in South Vietnam on a basis that would permit a "bourgeois" state apparatus to consolidate itself. Listen to him:

"We should absolutely not un-constrainedly entertain any illusion about peaceful transition... our party has asserted that the revolutionary violence is the only correct way to overthrow the enemy... the immediate task of the working class, after winning power, is very heavy: repress all opposition of the exploiting classes; crush all capitalist plots... rely on... arming the masses... and not on such and such theories about legality and peaceful methods."

It is always "crush, crush" and "repress, repress" in Truong Chinh's report. But there is nevertheless an undertone of defeatism in what Truong Chinh told his North Vietnamese comrades. After praising Ho Chi Minh's party for what it had achieved in North Vietnam, he lets slip the information that all is not well behind his own lines.

He says that "in the northern part of our country, the struggle between the socialist path and the capitalist path is still going on to definitely determine who will defeat whom. This is a protracted, hard, and complicated struggle." Translated into non-"dialectical" prose, this means that the North Vietnamese are not themselves united behind Ho Chi Minh. If they were, there would be no need to speak of a struggle "to definitely determine who will defeat whom."

Truong Chinh's words, calling for a prolonged effort to "reform old-generation intellectuals and form a new class of intellectuals from among the agricultural and industrial classes and make them absolutely faithful to socialism," indicate that the job of forcing the North Vietnamese into a Communist mold is far from completed. The need to compel "absolute" fidelity to a doctrine hides a recognition that black marketeers are at work, and that "small traders," who must be "resolutely educated" and brought into "service cells," have been doing something more than reading the works of Marx, Engels and Mao Tse-tung.

It would be a pity if our negotiator, Averell Harriman, were to ignore either one of the two sides to Truong Chinh's report to his comrades in Hanoi. On the one hand, the North Vietnamese are still insisting that a peace must not impede the Vietcong's "leadership of the national democratic people's revolution," a "right" that "must absolutely not be allowed to fall into the hands of the national bourgeois class." On the other hand, North Vietnam is leading at the peace talks from weakness, not from strength either on the battlefield or on the home front.

Why should the U.S. give up the struggle to save the day for the South Vietnamese when we actually have Ho Chi Minh's "cadres" over a barrel? Must we sell out at this point merely because our own government is on the point of changing? If we do, we will be the biggest fools that history has ever known.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

ACCORDING TO JULIET LOWELL, a Western senator received this letter from a constituent last month: "Dear Senator: I have voted for you three times and I think you're terrific. Please send me $900 at once so I can buy an ice box and repaint my car. P.S. The three times I voted for you were in the election of 1966."

That demon statistician, Dick Hyman, has come up with four mighty peculiar cases wherein petitioning married folk were granted divorces. For example: 1. An indignant husband cited twenty-two cruelties inflicted by his wife, ranging all the way from chopping up his clothes to beating up his mother. What enraged him most, however, was that she stole his five pet rabbits. 2. A New England lady won her freedom by proving that from the day of her marriage, her husband had spoken to her only three times in twelve years. She was awarded custody of her three children. 3. A man was granted his freedom from a lady spiritualist who said he must obey her every whim—because she was merely relaying orders from his deceased first wife. And 4: An aroused dowager listed among her husband's unspeakable "cruelties" that he painted spectacles and a mustache on her wedding photo.

QUOTABLE: "If you can keep your head when all about you are losing theirs, maybe you haven't heard the news."—Adam Smith. "A New York woman was mugged on Park Avenue, but never called the police. She didn't want to become involved."—Charles Pryce.

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Is the formation of adhesions after an operation a family tendency and is it possible to prevent them?

Occasionally some people confuse adhesions with a tendency to form keloids after surgery. Let me see if I can clarify this confusion. A keloid of the skin is a dense growth of tissue that occurs in some people following any surgery that involves an incision of the skin. There is no doubt that there are distinct family and racial tendencies responsible for this pile up of skin tissue at the site of the scar.

Adhesions are firm bands of fibrous tissue that occur following abdominal surgery. It is not generally accepted that there is any hereditary tendency in the formation of adhesions. There is greater likelihood that infection within the abdominal cavity, peritonitis, injury and rough handling of the delicate intestinal tract are more responsible for the formation of adhesions.

Adhesions are sometimes considered to be nature's protective way of walling off an abscess within the abdomen. Sometimes they form following difficult or long operations on the gall bladder, the appendix, the large and small intestines and in the pelvis. Undoubtedly some slight adhesions occur after most complicated abdominal surgery.

It is only when these bands of adhesions become so firm that they envelop and constrict the intestinal tract that symptoms arise that may necessitate further surgery.

Adhesions can be prevented by the gentle handling of all organs during surgery. Modern techniques avoid harsh gauze, irritating drugs and solutions.

A number of excellent drugs, cortisone and enzymes are used during and after surgery to reduce the formation of adhesions. The possibility that they may occur should never be a source of concern for those about to undergo any operation. Keloids too can be reduced in size, in many instances in patients who are known to form them, by small doses of X-ray to the skin incision.

Are there any new methods to reduce the size of a birthmark in a new-born child?

A number of different types of birthmarks vary in size and position. The most distressing one, of course, is the strawberry-colored birthmark or angioma, which occurs beneath the skin of the face. Only recently it was reported at the Johns Hopkins Hospital that the spreading of such a birthmark was prevented by the use of a form of cortisone. This apparently has great advantage, because it makes later treatment less arduous.

Birthmarks are due to some developmental fault. It is unfair for parents to condemn themselves and feel guilty for anything they might have done to which they attribute the birthmark in their new-born child.

Many standard techniques attempt to remove the birthmark. These include X-ray treatments, dry ice and surgery in carefully chosen patients. Parents must be warned never to fall into the trap of "new scientific methods" filled with promises that exploit their anxieties and do far more harm than good.

Old antiseptic medicines become concentrated and can cause severe skin burns.

Missile Theft Done Via Normal Freight Routes

KARLSRUHE, Germany (AP) — A sidewinder air to air missile and two navigation instruments stolen from a West German air base last year were smuggled to Moscow as ordinary air freight and luggage on commercial flights, the federal prosecutor said today.

Prosecutor Ludwig Martin told a news conference the 10-foot long sidewinder went as air freight and the two navigational instruments were hidden in luggage that was carried on two separate commercial flights by someone now in police custody. The suspect was not identified.

Two others, Polish-born Josef Linowski, a resident of Krefeld, Germany, and Sgt. Maj. Wolf Dietrich Knope, 33, a West German Starfighter jet pilot, were arrested last week in connection with the thefts in October last year.

Formerly part of the Sixth District represented by William H. Harsha Jr., Pickaway County has been grouped with western Franklin County and all of Madison County to create the new political subdivision.

Representation of the new district in Congress will be no easy task since a major metropolitan area, its suburbs and rural areas are within the district's boundaries. It will take a man of experience, devotion and integrity to serve all these peoples' needs.

The Herald is of the opinion, these qualities exist in Chalmers P. Wylie. Congressman Wylie has served on the various House committees and subcommittees including the House Republican Task Force on crime, House Committee on Banking and Currency, subcommittees on Small Business, Consumer Affairs, Bank Supervision and Insurance.

Congressman Wylie is a former Columbus City attorney, Assistant Attorney General and Assistant to the Governor. A graduate of Ohio State and Harvard Universities, Wylie spent his early life in the villages of Norwich and Pataskala.

Many other attributes, from working his way through college to medals earned during World War II, combined with his background and experience in Congress merit our endorsement.

We urge you to vote on Tuesday and vote for experience — vote for Chalmers P. Wylie to represent the 15th U.S. Congressional District.

North Vietnamese Jittery?

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

If the U.S. were to accept a cease-fire with the North Vietnamese that lets the Vietcong get an influential position in any post-war coalition in Saigon, do any of our more innocent New Leftists know what the consequences would be?

A report currently being passed around on State Department levels in Washington, and presumably to our negotiator Averell Harriman in Paris, could tell the innocents much if they still have the capacity to read. The document in question is a translation of the monitored text of revolutionary leader Truong Chinh's words to his North Vietnamese comrades on the occasion of Karl Marx's 150th birthday anniversary. In its implications, Truong Chinh's outline for a South Vietnamese take-over is pretty horrendous. It pays lip service to the possibility that there might be a peaceful transition to socialism in South Vietnam once the U.S. "imperialists" are out of the country. But the hope for peace would depend entirely on the "bourgeoisie" rolling over and playing dead.

As is always the case with a convinced Marxist revolutionary, the language used by Truong Chinh bores the non-Marxist reader almost to extinction. "Dialectical" cliché is piled on cliché. But beneath the beat of the phrases about "feudal exploiters" and the "national democratic people's revolution," there sounds the ominous call to slaughter of anyone who might own more than a few hectares of land or a bank account capable of sustaining a middle-sized clothing store.

What Truong Chinh is telling the Vietcong as well as his own North Vietnamese cadres is that there can be no peace in South Vietnam on a basis that would permit a "bourgeois" state apparatus to consolidate itself. Listen to him:

"We should absolutely not un-

constrainedly entertain any illusion about peaceful transition... our party has asserted that the revolutionary violence is the only correct way to overthrow the enemy... the immediate task of the working class, after winning power, is very heavy: repress all opposition of the exploiting classes; crush all capitalist plots... rely on... arming the masses... and not on such and such theories about legality and peaceful methods."

It is always "crush, crush" and "repress, repress" in Truong Chinh's report. But there is nevertheless an undertone of defeatism in what Truong Chinh told his North Vietnamese comrades. After praising Ho Chi Minh's party for what it had achieved in North Vietnam, he lets slip the information that all is not well behind his own lines:

He says that "in the northern part of our country, the struggle between the socialist path and the capitalist path is still going on to definitely determine who will defeat whom. This is a protracted, hard, and complicated struggle." Translated into non-"dialectical" prose, this means that the North Vietnamese are not themselves united behind Ho Chi Minh. If they were, there would be no need to speak of a struggle "to definitely determine who will defeat whom."

Truong Chinh's words, calling for a prolonged effort to "reform old-generation intellectuals and form a new class of intellectuals from among the agricultural and industrial classes and make them absolutely faithful to socialism," indicate that the job of forcing the North Vietnamese into a Communist mold is far from completed. The need to compel "absolute" fidelity to a doctrine hides a recognition that black marketeers are at work, and that "small traders," who must be "resolutely educated" and brought into "service cells," have been doing something more than reading the works of Marx, Engels and Mao Tse-tung.

It would be a pity if our negotiator, Averell Harriman, were to ignore either one of the two sides to Truong Chinh's report to his comrades in Hanoi. On the one hand, the North Vietnamese are still insisting that a peace must not impede the Vietcong's "leadership of the national democratic people's revolution," a "right" that "must absolutely not be allowed to fall into the hands of the national bourgeois class." On the other hand, North Vietnam is leading at the peace talks from weakness, not from strength either on the battlefield or on the home front.

Why should the U.S. give up the struggle to save the day for the South Vietnamese when we actually have Ho Chi Minh's "cadres" over a barrel? Must we sell out at this point merely because our own government is on the point of changing? If we do, we will be the biggest fools that history has ever known.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

ACCORDING TO JULIET LOWELL, a Western senator received this letter from a constituent last month: "Dear Senator: I have voted for you three times and I think you're terrific. Please send me $900 at once so I can buy an ice box and repaint my car. P.S. The three times I voted for you were in the election of 1966."

That demon statistician, Dick Hyman, has come up with four mighty peculiar cases wherein petitioning married folk were granted divorces. For example: 1. An indignant husband cited twenty-two cruelties inflicted by his wife, ranging all the way from chopping up his clothes to beating up his mother. What enraged him most, however, was that she stole his five pet rabbits. 2. A New England lady won her freedom by proving that from the day of her marriage, her husband had spoken to her only three times in twelve years. She was awarded custody of her three children. 3. A man was granted his freedom from a lady spiritualist who said he must obey her every whim—because she was merely relaying orders from his deceased first wife. And 4: An aroused dowager listed among her husband's unspeakable "cruelties" that he painted spectacles and a mustache on her wedding photo.

QUOTABLE: "If you can keep your head when all about you are losing theirs, maybe you haven't heard the news."—Adam Smith. "A New York woman was mugged on Park Avenue, but never called the police. She didn't want to become involved."—Charles Pryce.

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Is the formation of adhesions after an operation a family tendency and is it possible to prevent them?

Occasionally some people confuse adhesions with a tendency to form keloids after surgery. Let me see if I can clarify this confusion. A keloid of the skin is a dense growth of tissue that occurs in some people following any surgery that involves an incision of the skin. There is no doubt that there are distinct family and racial tendencies responsible for this pile up of skin tissue at the site of the scar.

Adhesions are firm bands of fibrous tissue that occur following abdominal surgery. It is not generally accepted that there is any hereditary tendency in the formation of adhesions. There is greater likelihood that infection within the abdominal cavity, peritonitis, injury and rough handling of the delicate intestinal tract are more responsible for the formation of adhesions.

Adhesions are sometimes considered to be nature's protective way of walling off an abscess within the abdomen. Sometimes they form following difficult or long operations on the gall bladder, the appendix, the large and small intestines and in the pelvis. Undoubtedly some slight adhesions occur after most complicated abdominal surgery.

It is only when these bands of adhesions become so firm that they envelop and constrict the intestinal tract that symptoms arise that may necessitate further surgery.

Adhesions can be prevented by the gentle handling of all organs during surgery. Modern techniques avoid harsh gauze, irritating drugs and solutions.

A number of excellent drugs, cortisone and enzymes are used during and after surgery to reduce the formation of adhesions. The possibility that they may occur should never be a source of concern for those about to undergo any operation. Keloids too can be reduced in size, in many instances in patients who are known to form them, by small doses of X-ray to the skin incision.

Are there any new methods to reduce the size of a birthmark in a new-born child?

A number of different types of birthmarks vary in size and position. The most distressing one, of course, is the strawberry-colored birthmark or angioma, which occurs beneath the skin of the face. Only recently it was reported at the Johns Hopkins Hospital that the spreading of such a birthmark was prevented by the use of a form of cortisone. This apparently has great advantage, because it makes later treatment less arduous.

Birthmarks are due to some developmental fault. It is unfair for parents to condemn themselves and feel guilty for anything they might have done to which they attribute the birthmark in their new-born child.

Many standard techniques attempt to remove the birthmark. These include X-ray treatments, dry ice and surgery in carefully chosen patients. Parents must be warned never to fall into the trap of "new scientific methods" filled with promises that exploit their anxieties and do far more harm than good.

Old antiseptic medicines become concentrated and can cause severe skin burns.

Missile Theft

Done Via Normal Freight Routes

KARLSRUHE, Germany (AP) — A sidewinder air to air missile and two navigation instruments stolen from a West German air base last year were smuggled to Moscow as ordinary air freight and luggage on commercial flights, the federal prosecutor said today.

Prosecutor Ludwig Martin told a news conference the 10-foot long sidewinder went as air freight and the two navigational instruments were hidden in luggage that was carried on two separate commercial flights by someone now in police custody. The suspect was not identified.

Two others, Polish-born Josef Linowski, a resident of Krefeld, Germany, and Sgt. Maj. Wolf Diehard Knoke, 33, a West German Starfighter jet pilot, were arrested last week in connection with the thefts in October last year.

According To Boyle

By JOY STILLEX (For Hal Boyle)

NEW YORK (AP) — Have you sent out your Halloween cards yet? Better hurry and get them in the mail because almost before the ink is dry on the envelopes you'll have to start addressing your Thanksgiving cards.

At one time all I had to do to meet my social obligations was to dispatch Christmas and birthday cards to my friends. For remembering anniversaries I got extra points.

Now you can find greeting cards for every occasion, plus an occasional card for which there is no occasion. As long as the stamps and the writing arm hold out, you can send sentiments covering all eventualities. There are offerings appropriate for everything from extending sympathy to an invalid laid up with a broken small toe on the left foot to those congratulating the lucky guy who won the office football pool.

In between are cards saying hello, goodbye, thinking of you, have a good trip, good luck in your new apartment, why aren't you thinking of me?, take me along, welcome back, missing you, congratulations on the new car, please write, to a secret pal, good luck as you start your new job, good luck as you leave your old job.

These are around all the time, but in season you'll have your pick of sweet, sentimental, sick, nasty and humorous cards commemorating every holiday from Easter around the calendar to groundhog day.

Birthday wishes are strictly categorized—you don't just pick one that says "Happy Birthday" and let it go at that. There are special ones for mothers, fathers, husbands, wives, aunts, nieces, nephews, cousins, godchildren, friends, friends of friends, mothers of friends, friends of mothers, teachers, bosses and members of the office typing pool.

Others are available for those whose natal day coincides with your own, who were born on a holiday or who are twins. It isn't on display, but I'm sure my neighborhood stationery store has a "Best Wishes to the quintuplets" card tucked away in some rack.

With everything already said in print, letter writing will soon go out of style. So far I haven't come across a card that says, "I'm fine; send money," but when they get that one in production college bookstores will have a best seller.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — An inability to understand the admonition to "know thyself" is playing tricks with the immediate future of all Americans and bringing to grief our best laid plans.

The problem involves Americans as consumers. The failure is in being unable to accept the fact that today's consumer is a changing personality, in some respects unrelated to his ancestors.

He is wealthier, better educated, has a bank account and enormous credit facilities at his service. Above all he has more options. Whereas once he purchased to fill his needs, now he buys to satisfy his tastes as well.

He has, therefore, become far less predictable than the consumer of a few decades ago who often lived a hand-to-mouth existence. He can postpone or advance his purchases. He can dip into savings. He can obtain credit.

His purchases depend not just on ability but on willingness to buy, as has been stressed for years now by George Katona of the University of Michigan, a pioneer in consumer studies.

Not only has the consumer become less predictable, he has become a much larger factor in the economy. Although this is well known, the combination still seems to have dismayed the Federal Reserve, the best economic brains in the federal establishment and hundreds of university economists.

As we now know, the consumer cut his rate of savings from near 7.5 per cent take home pay to about 6.25 per cent in recent months and thus added to the economic boom about the same amount taken out by a tax increase.

It wasn't supposed to be that way. The consumer was supposed to retrench, as he did in the past. He was supposed to lower his living standard a bit, do without luxuries, cut back until it was safe to come out again.

Because he didn't, the tax policy of the world's strongest economy was aborted, at least in timing. Perhaps the surtax will make its effects felt soon, but it has been delayed months and that's a big, costly error.

The tendency of even highly regarded economists to believe the consumer will react in predictable ways is rooted in the teaching of John Maynard Keynes, a British economist of the 1930s, and those who developed his theories.

Much of the New Era economists were weaned on Keynes, who contended that what the consumer spent depended on income, that there was a stable ratio of spending to income. This also meant a stable savings rate.

Events of the past few months have disproved this contention.

Friday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Looney and sons were Mr. Ernie Debo of Mt. Sterling and Mildred Barry and sons.

The Derby MYF group is planning a spaghetti supper for the night of Saturday Nov. 16 from 5-8 p.m. at the church.

A surprise carry-in dinner was held on Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Mouser. The occasion was Mrs. Mouser's birthday. Guests present were Mr. and Mrs. James Furniss, Rhonda and Johnny, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Sexton, Mildred Barry and sons Kit, Edward and Keith Brian, Mr. Ernie Debo and Mr. and Mrs. John Looney and sons Buddy and Rex.

several score of the most influential men in the country, all of whom have incomes of at least $30,000 a year.

The Tuesday to Thursday Club is the mocking group name given those members of the House of Representatives who take full advantage of the fact that the House rarely conducts major legislative business on Mondays, hardly ever meets on Fridays and never, except in really exceptional circumstances, on Saturdays.

There is no easier way to start an argument among a group of congressmen than to mention the club. Its critics come mainly from two groups: those who are pressing for a thorough going revision of House customs and procedures and those whose districts are so far from Washington that even the lure of a four-day weekend has to be balanced against the time and cost of travel.

The defenders tend to come from the old pros who control the House's way of doing things and members from the populous quarter of the country within an hour or two's plane or even auto ride from Washington.

Hardly anyone, though, attributes congressional absenteeism — of which the brief work schedule is only one symptom — to just plain laziness.

Two factors are mentioned over and over again:

—Elected for only two-year terms, members must campaign almost continuously for re-election.

—Congressional sessions now run almost the year around; historically speaking, a fairly recent development. Even this year found Congress meeting until Oct. 14, little more than three weeks before the election at which every House seat will be voted on. True, toward the end the House, and the Senate too, ran into embarrassing days when they couldn't do business for lack of a quorum.

In addition, some members have private affairs—professional practices, businesses, farms—to which they want to devote some time.

However, Rep. Carl Albert, D-Okla., who as House majority leader has been mainly responsible for the scheduling of legislative business, says the press of private affairs is not a very important consideration—"that has never been a reason for the House not to get a quorum."

"Of course, it's the need to

Masheter Plugs For Issue No. 1

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Unless voters approve State Issue No. 1 in the Nov. 5 election, Ohio future roadbuilding program will be in danger, State Highway Director P. E. Masheter said today.

Masheter noted that all money from past bond issues has been used or is programmed, and that "if Issue No. 1 does not pass, plans to eliminate the 1,233 bottlenecks in Ohio's major urban areas will have to be shelved."

get back to the district, for campaigning, or just to keep in touch with constituents' needs and feelings that accounts for the trips away," Albert said in an interview.

"If it's possible to schedule minor legislation on Monday, major legislation on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, and not meet on Friday and Saturday unless it is necessary, there's nothing really wrong with the arrangement," he continued. "When it's necessary to meet on Friday or Saturday, we do. Just to meet on Fridays for the sake of meeting doesn't make sense."

He said the House keeps up with its committees, handling bills in reasonable time after the committees put them in shape—but the committees of ten are handicapped by tardy arrival of the executive branch's recommendations and position papers.

"Congress gets some undeserved blame," he said. "If we don't get the executive papers until March or April, we start off that far behind."

Committee schedules pretty much follow that of the House. Albert doesn't believe a longer congressional work week would speed up committee work—"I don't think Friday meetings would keep committee members here."

The founding fathers didn't conceive of a congressman's job as a full-time one, and for about a century and a half, it wasn't.

The early congresses set a pattern of alternating long and short sessions—four or five months one year, three or four the next. Slowly, the long sessions stretched out to about eight months, while the others stayed short. There was some stretch-out during the bustling New Deal years of the 1930's and then World War II brought in year-around sessions.

Congress enacted its last comprehensive reorganization law in 1946. It provided, among other things, for adjournment by July 31 each year except in case of war, national emergency or similar urgency.

But the July 31 deadline has been met only twice in the suc-

Wild Chase Ends In Man's Capture

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Police had traffic lights turned red in both directions Tuesday during a wild auto chase that reached speeds of 100 miles an hour and ended up in Stark County with the capture of Larry Stewart, 28.

The lights on certain streets in Akron were turned red at a central control point, at the request of pursuing officers, who wanted to avoid innocent motorists being involved in a collision.

Before the chase was over, six law enforcement agencies were involved. Stewart, wanted on a burglary charge in Akron, was finally stopped north of Canton and captured at gunpoint.

No shots were fired.

ceeding 22 years. For the past seven years Congress has never adjourned earlier than Oct. 13, for the past decade never earlier than Sept. 1.

The lawmakers gradually have come to face the fact that for practical purposes they are no longer residents of their districts who visit Washington from time to time to transact the nation's business. They are residents of Washington, visitors at "home."

This has been recognized by implication as Congress has gradually authorized more and more paid round trips for its members—one per session originally, one a month since last year.

Reform advocates insist Congress could make much better use of its time.

"Sloppy scheduling," said Rep. James C. Cleveland, R-N.H., is a basic reason for the present situation.

He is one of the leaders of a group pushing a bill for sweeping changes in congressional organization and procedures. It is bipartisan, but Republicans were most vocal in the unsuccessful effort to bring it to a House vote this year.

The bill would restate in stronger terms the requirement for July 31 adjournment except in times of crisis.

Cleveland and one of his associates, Rep. Robert Taft Jr., R-Ohio, argued that a no-nonsense adjournment deadline would force Congress to buckle down earlier, work longer weeks, get committee work done faster, produce appropriations on time—and get away for some family life.

"The trouble with the power structure," Cleveland said, "is that it is made up of older members with no children at home."

Holdup Man Shot In Akron Attempt

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—One man was hospitalized in serious condition with a gunshot wound and a woman was in custody after a robbery spree by a trio in Akron Tuesday.

A second man is being sought. Police said a bartender at Freddie's Bar on Copley Road shot Ronald Owens in the chest during a holdup attempt.

Two other stores were robbed of $150 in holdups before the attempt at the bar, police said.

Police said Benning surrendered voluntarily Tuesday. Terrell was found stabbed to death at Benning's apartment.

Friday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Looney and sons were Mr. Ernie Debo of Mt. Sterling and Mildred Barry and sons.

The Derby MYF group is planning a spaghetti supper for the night of Saturday Nov. 16 from 5-8 p.m. at the church.

A surprise carry-in dinner was held on Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Mouser. The occasion was Mrs. Mouser's birthday. Guests present were Mr. and Mrs. James Furniss, Rhonda and Johnny, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Sexton, Mildred Barry and sons Kit, Edward and Keith Brian, Mr. Ernie Debo and Mr. and Mrs. John Looney and sons Buddy and Rex.

Birthday greetings this week to: John Bayes, Oct. 26; Marvene Furniss, Oct. 26; Mildred Mouser, Oct. 29; Betty Riddle, Nov. 1; and Kenneth Spradlin, Nov. 1.

several score of the most influential men in the country, all of whom have incomes of at least $30,000 a year.

The Tuesday to Thursday Club is the mocking group name given those members of the House of Representatives who take full advantage of the fact that the House rarely conducts major legislative business on Mondays, hardly ever meets on Fridays and never, except in really exceptional circumstances, on Saturdays.

There is no easier way to start an argument among a group of congressmen than to mention the club. Its critics come mainly from two groups: those who are pressing for a thorough going revision of House customs and procedures and those whose districts are so far from Washington that even the lure of a four-day weekend has to be balanced against the time and cost of travel.

The defenders tend to come from the old pros who control the House's way of doing things and members from the populous quarter of the country within an hour or two's plane or even auto ride from Washington.

Hardly anyone, though, attributes congressional absenteeism — of which the brief work schedule is only one symptom — to just plain laziness.

Two factors are mentioned over and over again: —Elected for only two-year terms, members must campaign almost continuously for re-election.

—Congressional sessions now

run almost the year around; historically speaking, a fairly recent development. Even this year found Congress meeting until Oct. 14, little more than three weeks before the election at which every House seat will be voted on. True, toward the end of the House, and the Senate too, ran into embarrassing days when they couldn't do business for lack of a quorum.

In addition, some members have private affairs—professional practices, businesses, farms—to which they want to devote some time.

However, Rep. Carl Albert, D-Okla., who as House majority leader has been mainly responsible for the scheduling of legislative business, says the press of private affairs is not a very important consideration—"that has never been a reason for the House not to get a quorum."

"Of course, it's the need to get back to the district, for campaigning, or just to keep in touch with constituents' needs and feelings that accounts for the trips away," Albert said in an interview.

"If it's possible to schedule minor legislation on Monday, major legislation on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, and not meet on Friday and Saturday unless it is necessary, there's nothing really wrong with the arrangement," he continued. "When it's necessary to meet on Friday or Saturday, we do. Just to meet on Fridays for the sake of meeting doesn't make sense."

He said the House keeps up with its committees, handling bills in reasonable time after the committees put them in shape—but the committees often are handicapped by tardy arrival of the executive branch's recommendations and position papers.

"Congress gets some undeserved blame," he said. "If we don't get the executive papers until March or April, we start off that far behind."

Committee schedules pretty much follow that of the House. Albert doesn't believe a longer congressional work week would speed up committee work—"I don't think Friday meetings would keep committee members here."

The founding fathers didn't conceive of a congressman's job as a full-time one, and for about a century and a half, it wasn't. The early congresses set a pattern of alternating long and short sessions—four or five months one year, three or four the next. Slowly, the long sessions stretched out to about eight months, while the others stayed short. There was some stretch-out during the bustling New Deal years of the 1930's and then World War II brought in year-around sessions.

Congress enacted its last comprehensive reorganization law in 1946. It provided, among other things, for adjournment by July 31 each year except in case of war, national emergency or similar urgency.

But the July 31 deadline has been met only twice in the succeeding 22 years. For the past seven years Congress has never adjourned earlier than Oct. 13, for the past decade never earlier than Sept. 1.

The lawmakers gradually have come to face the fact that for practical purposes they are

Wild Chase Ends In Man's Capture

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Police had traffic lights turned red in both directions Tuesday during a wild auto chase that reached speeds of 100 miles an hour and ended up in Stark County with the capture of Larry Stewart, 28.

The lights on certain streets in Akron were turned red at a central control point at the request of pursuing officers, who wanted to avoid innocent motorists being involved in a collision.

Before the chase was over, six law enforcement agencies were involved. Stewart, wanted on a burglary charge in Akron, was finally stopped north of Canton and captured at gunpoint. No shots were fired.

TWO MILESTONES—Dr. William D. Coolidge, "father" of the modern X-ray tube that transformed X-ray from an uncertain practice to a precise medical tool, looks at his invention at his home in Schenectady, N.Y. It was 50 years ago that the GE scientist received the first patent, and it was 95 years ago that he was born.

no longer residents of their districts who visit Washington from time to time to transact the nation's business. They are residents of Washington, visitors at "home."

This has been recognized by implication as Congress has gradually authorized more and more paid round trips for its members—one per session originally, one a month since last year.

Reform advocates insist Congress could make much better use of its time.

"Sloppy scheduling," said Rep. James C. Cleveland, R-N.H., is a basic reason for the present situation.

He is one of the leaders of a group pushing a bill for sweeping changes in congressional organization and procedures. It is bipartisan, but Republicans were most vocal in the unsuccessful effort to bring it to a House vote this year.

The bill would restate in stronger terms the requirement for July 31 adjournment except in times of crisis.

Cleveland and one of his associates, Rep. Robert Taft Jr., R-Ohio, argued that a no-nonsense adjournment deadline would force Congress to buckle down earlier, work longer weeks, get committee work done faster, produce appropriations on time—and get away for some family life.

"The trouble with the power structure," Cleveland said, "is that it is made up of older members with no children at home."

Holdup Man Shot In Akron Attempt

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — One man was hospitalized in serious condition with a gunshot wound and a woman was in custody after a robbery spree by a trio in Akron Tuesday.

A second man is being sought. Police said a bartender at Freddie's Bar on Copley Road shot Ronald Owens in the chest during a holdup attempt.

Two other stores were robbed of $150 in holdups before the attempt at the bar, police said.

Charge Akron Man In Stabbing Death

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Police have charged 51-year-old William H. Benning of Akron with second-degree murder in the Monday slaying of Wilbur Terrell, 35.

Police said Benning surrendered voluntarily Tuesday.

Terrell was found stabbed to death at Benning's apartment.

How Weather Looks Today

OHIO WEATHER SUMMARY
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Official Weather Bureau Summary for Ohio:

As high pressure began working into western Ohio Tuesday night, skies cleared in that area and temperatures dropped well below freezing. At 4:30 a. m. Toledo had a reading of 22 degrees, breaking the previous record for the date of 23 set in 1963.

Clearing will be progressing across the eastern portions of the state today, with high temperatures in the 50s west to 40s east.

Under clear skies tonight, temperatures will likely drop into the 20s and low 30s over the eastern portions while southerly winds setting in in the west portion will keep temperatures from falling below the mid 30s.

The high pressure ridge will be moving eastward Thursday and southerly winds will bring considerable warmer temperatures to the area under mostly sunny skies.

FORECASTS

OHIO — Mostly sunny south and west, clearing northeast today. Warmer west today, high in 50s west to 40s east. Clear tonight, a little warmer west, colder with freeze east. Lows in 20s and low 30s east to mid 30s west. Sunny and warmer Thursday.

College Student Flood Predicted

CINCINNATI (AP) — A preliminary education survey, published annually, indicates more than 7 million students are registered this fall for credit in colleges and universities within the nation — with a sharp rise in freshman enrollment.

"Since the 18-year-olds in the land number barely more than last year, a large freshman gain is significant," said Dr. Garland G. Parker in releasing his early survey of 614 schools.

Dr. Parker is vice provost for admissions and records at the University of Cincinnati and is a national authority on collegiate statistics.

Cleveland Clinic Plans Helipod

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Part of a $30 million expansion program at Cleveland Clinic includes a helipod on top of a new hospital.

Dr. Fay A. LeFevre, chairman of the clinic board of directors, said Tuesday the landing area for helicopters will speed the arrival of transplant patients and vital organs used in the transplants.

Chemical Firm Fights Planned Pollution Law

Ohio Board Hears Official Of PPG Plant

ZANESVILLE, Ohio (AP) — A Barborton chemical complex will not be able to operate economically if obliged to meet proposed Ohio Department of Health water pollution control standards, company officials say.

In remarks prepared for an Ohio Water Pollution Control Board hearing here today, Robert E. Widling, vice president of manufacturing for PPG Industries' industrial chemical division, said the future of the entire chemical complex at Barborton would be threatened if the standards were adopted.

The hearing was concerned specifically with the industrial and recreational uses of waters in the Muskingum River basin. PPG's Barborton plant is the second largest chemical plant in Ohio and employs more than 2,300 workers, Widling said.

The Ohio Department of Health has asked for a standard of 750 parts per million (ppm) of chloride in the Tuscarawas River at Massillon, downstream from Barborton. PPG Industries asked that a figure of 1500 ppm of chloride should be adopted.

"Based on present technology," Widling said, "it will be necessary to reduce soda ash production by a minimum of one third to meet the state proposed requirement at Massillon."

"At this level of production, the operation is below the economic break — even point, thus jeopardizing the future of the entire chemical complex at Barborton," Widling said.

Plan New Factory In Delaware County

DELAWARE, Ohio (AP) — Designed Facilities Corp., subsidiary of the Kaiser Aluminum and Chemical Corp., plans to build a $4 million plant here which will provide about 250 new jobs.

The firm produces manufactured building systems. President J. P. Wickel Jr. said Tuesday the Delaware plant will be in operation within six months.

Texas Governor Race Analyzed

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The big question in Texas' governor's race is whether Richard M. Nixon's coattails are wide enough to help a Republican defeat the heavily favored candidate of a divided Democratic party?

A landslide Nixon victory in Texas apparently is Republican Paul Eggers' best hope of beating the Democratic nominee, Lt. Gov. Preston Smith, and becoming the State's first GOP chief executive since 1869.

But even that might not be enough since those Democrats who desert Hubert H. Humphrey to vote for Nixon or third-party candidate George C. Wallace are expected to switch back to Smith in this traditionally Democratic state.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Old Lady Has Eyes For Him

DEAR ABBY: I am a 21-year-old male and unattached, also a steady worker and mind my own business. My best friend is married, has a wife and baby and they live with HER people.

They have no transportation, so I visit them quite often. While I am there, I am in the company of her parents. Now for my problem. My friend's mother-in-law wrote to me declaring her "love" for me, Abby. I have never even looked sideways at this old lady and I don't know what gave her the idea that I could care for her. I hate to go to their house again, knowing how she feels about me. But if I stay away, my buddy will wonder why.

Should I tell him about this? Or is there a better way to handle it?

INNOCENT VICTIM
DEAR INNOCENT: Don't mention this to your buddy or visit the house any more than is necessary. But when you do, be sure you continue to mind your own business and make sure you don't look at the old lady sideways or any other way. If she pitches you again, tell her (quietly) to confine her "love" to her own husband.

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem you wouldn't believe. I am 16 years old, and for as long as I can remember I haven't done anything without cheating. I have also stolen all my life. I started when I was little, taking small things from my friends. I have even shoplifted and stolen money just to get away with something.

I've never been caught. I guess I'm just lucky, or maybe I'm good at it from so much experience. I am also a terrible liar. I lie just to get people to listen to me. I don't have any friends, but I'd like at least one good friend. I'm always trying to impress people, but I just end up making a fool of myself.

I'd like to be a good person but I don't have the willpower. I need some help before it's too late. If it's not too late already. So, Dear Abby, what can you do for a 16-year-old failure?

A FAILURE
DEAR FAILURE: No one who knows his faults as well as you know yours can be considered a "failure." Furthermore, you are realistic enough to blame nobody but yourself for your weaknesses, smart enough to know that you lie because you want to attract attention, and sufficiently honest to admit that you want friends. If there is a school counselor or psychologist, make tracks for that office. If not, tell your parents you'd like to see a professional about some "personal emotional" problems. If you get the help you need, I'll put my chips on you!

DEAR ABBY: I baby-sit for a very nice lady I'll call Mrs. Jones. She has a 4-year-old child. Mrs. Jones has a sister who lives on the other side of town who has a pair of wild twin boys about the same age as Mrs. Jones' little girl. When I come to sit for Mrs. Jones, I will very often find the twin cousins there because Mrs. Jones and her sister are going off together. Abby, I don't mind this at all, but when I have to bathe three children, give them their dinners and put them to bed, not to mention trying to keep them from getting into things they shouldn't and keeping them from fighting, don't you think I should get paid extra?

Well, I don't. The two mothers split the cost between them and I get paid only for taking care of one. Is this fair? How should I explain this to Mrs. Jones the next time this happens?

GYPPED
DEAR GYPED: Don't wait for it to "happen" again. Tell Mrs. Jones before you sit that you charge by the child, and not by the hour.

DEAR ABBY: I am sick to death of hearing widows complain because people call them MRS. JANE DOE instead of the more proper MRS. JOHN DOE.

I'm a widow, and I couldn't care less about what people call me—as long as they CALL me.

Traditional Party Lines Split Over Ribicoff, May

By G. C. THELEN Jr.
Associated Press Writer
HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, in trouble in his own Democratic party, is banking on Republicans and independents in his drive for re-election to a second term. His Republican opponent, Edwin H. May Jr., a former one-term Congressman, is fishing among dissident blue-collar Democrats and finding signs of a possibly sizeable catch.

"It's strange to get booed by Democrats in Hartford and cheered by independents and Republicans in Fairfield County," says Ribicoff, who is making his fourth campaign for statewide office.

"If we don't get the working-man's vote, forget it," says a strategist for May, a Hartford insurance executive.

However widespread the disruption of traditional party lines, both sides agree Republican presidential nominee Richard M. Nixon must sweep the state by a margin of 50,000 to 100,000 for May to win.

The presidential race between

Nixon and Democrat Hubert Humphrey is now rated about even in the state, with American Independent George C. Wallace expected to capture at most 10 per cent of the vote.

Polls show Ribicoff leading about 2 to 1. But they ignore the effect of Connecticut's complicated voting machines, which discourage ticket splitting.

Ribicoff's campaign hammers the theme that the 58-year-old former governor and secretary of health, education and welfare is a "courageous and independent" senator.

Implicit is Ribicoff's dressing down of Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley from the rostrum of the Democratic National Convention. He accused Daley of employing what he termed Gestapo police tactics on street demonstrators.

The Chicago speech has proven the biggest boon—and bomb—to Ribicoff's campaign although he brings it up only when asked.

It won him the support of thousands of enthusiastic backers of Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy and aides say it also won him many liberal Republicans and independents in a state where independents outnumber both Democrats and Republicans.

But the speech distressed many blue-collar Democrats already deeply troubled about law and order, the No. 1 campaign issue in the state.

Report Red China Missile Boo-Boo

HONG KONG (AP) — The Hong Kong Star said today an accident on an intermediate range test missile on the launching pad has delayed Red China's long-range missile program.

The report could not be verified here. U.S. military authorities reported last month that Red China was nearly a year behind schedule in testing its first long-range missile.

Pickaway Grange Report

STAR GRANGE

Star Grange met in regular session Tuesday evening with Worthy Master, Flem Blair presiding over the business session.

The secretary, Helen Hammel read a "Thank You" note from Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Lindsey for the testament presented their little son Jimmy. A contribution was made to the Pickaway County Grange Youth group for installing our officers at the Oct. 8 meeting.

The home economics chairman, Mrs. Francis Furniss thanked all who had helped in any way with the lunch at the 4-H and Grange building Card party. She also announced that the granges are making donations of aprons for Christmas gifts to the Veterans Hospital Chillicothe and urged the ladies to participate. They are to be taken to the Red Cross early in November.

The lecturer, Mrs. Ernestine Dudeson thanked the Grange for sending her to the lecturers conference held in Columbus recently and gave a very interesting talk on the many things she enjoyed that day.

She opened her program with group singing, "Harvester", Robert Morgan read, "Hallowe'en" and Harold Furniss read, "Are You Afraid of Ghosts?" and Mrs. Allen Follrod read, "You'll See" and Mrs. Flem Blair read, "The Oak Leaf". Mrs. Helen Hammel gave a reading "Change of Thought" and Mrs. Paul Dawson had the most correct answers in a contest, Hallowe'en Objects.

Seasonal refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. William Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Moore and Mrs. Janet Ray.

Union Chief Says OSU Accord Off

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A public employees union official said Tuesday that a no-strike agreement with Ohio State University does not apply to the current dispute.

L. O. Henry, director of Council 21 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, said contract labor was not an issue when the agreement was signed last year.

He said the agreement not to strike before the fall of 1970 applied only to the issues of wages and fringe benefits, which already have been settled.

Conservative Students Stage Own Protest

PIKEVILLE, Ky. (AP) — In a year when liberal college students across the nation are rebelling against conservative administrators, the inconceivable is happening at Pikeville College—conservative students are accusing their administration of being too liberal.

The students haven't taken to the streets. Nor have they threatened to take over the college administration building.

But the signs of a liberal-conservative conflict are unmistakable at the campus, which is dug into a mountain slope high above this eastern Kentucky city of 5,800.

The issues are the same as on many campuses: free speech, freedom in the classroom, the college's involvement in social problems, the impersonality of the education system, student dress and activities, and the college's response to change.

However, the sides are the reverse of what they are at other campuses—with the students taking a conservative position on almost every issue and the administration taking a liberal one.

Senior Dave Cleavanger, who classes himself a conservative, put it this way: "We must have the only right-wing student protest movement in the country."

The student conservatives, who seem to have a numerical upper hand in the 1,200-member student body, strongly support the Vietnam war and the draft. As for the college, they feel that the administration of Pikeville's 37-year-old president, Dr. Thomas H. Johns, is too liberal and that Johns is attempting to change the institution too fast.

"We're taking education out of its box," Johns said. "We're addressing it to the 20th century."

Conservatives at this Presbyterian-affiliated institution aren't impressed.

Conservative students have accused Johns of ousting elderly faculty members and replacing them with teachers who have liberal leanings.

The college board of trustees has given Johns a vote of confidence but opposition by the conservatives continues. Said student council president Robert Ford, "We're not satisfied with the investigation," referring to the action by the trustees. "We're going to have to have more."

President Johns said he's willing to do everything possible to cooperate with the students, but that he won't budge from his policy of "freeing kids' minds."

Johns said his administration has given students new freedom to speak out in the classroom, put them on faculty and college trustee committees and repeatedly encouraged them to "do your own thing."

"We don't know what our thing is," remarked one sophomore. "And even if we did we don't know how to do it."

Not all the students are conservative. There is a small, but increasingly vocal group of campus liberals, and the conservatives fear that the liberals are gaining support "by leaps and bounds."

Highway Bids Are Opened In Columbus

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Highway bids with a value of $17.6 million were opened by the Ohio Department of Highways today.

The apparent low bid was submitted in a joint venture by the Pierce and Lathrop Construction Cos., Toledo, in the amount of $8,792,888. The state estimate was $9,870,000. It includes seven bridges.

Other major projects in the bidding:

ATHENS COUNTY — Structure improvement to U.S. 33; apparent low bid W. J. Seidensticker Co., Columbus, $107,249; state estimate $69,400.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Citizens going to the polls next Tuesday thinking they will be voting for Richard M. Nixon or Hubert H. Humphrey, or George C. Wallace, will be wrong.

Instead, they actually will be voting for a group of people called presidential electors. The electors picked will decide who will be the next president—unless, for the third time in the nation's history, the issue gets passed on to the U.S. House of Representatives. It's all because of the indirect system for election of a president developed by the framers of the Constitution.

Originally, the state legislatures picked the electors, but that was soon changed to give the job to the people.

In fact, the electors soon became rubber stamps, reflecting the result of the popular vote.

This year, however, because of the uncertainty caused by a three-way presidential race, there is more chance that the electors will act independently.

In order to be elected, a candidate must receive the votes of at least 270 of the 538 electors. But with three major candidates this year, it is possible that none will win in enough states to be assured 270 electoral votes.

Each state has a number of electors equal to its senators and congressmen. For example, Maryland, with eight House members and two in the Senate, has 10 electoral votes.

The District of Columbia, with no congressional representation, was given three electoral votes by the 23rd Amendment.

In each state, voters selecting among the various presidential candidates are actually picking from slates of electors. In some, they vote for a whole slate, in others for individual electors. Whichever candidate gets the most votes in the state, his electors win. It doesn't matter if he gets 90 per cent, or receives one more vote than each of his opponents.

On Dec. 16, the electors selected in the general election meet in their respective state capitals to cast their votes for president and vice president.

With rare exceptions, electors have generally followed the instructions of their state's voters. But they don't have to. Only 17 states have any kind of legal instruction for electors, and only three provide penalties for those who fail to follow their mandate.

Thus, between the time they are elected and the time they vote, the electors could decide to vote for someone other than the candidate they represented on Election Day.

Wallace, whose candidacy is the chief reason for a possibly inconclusive outcome next Tuesday, has said that he will attempt to deal with one of the other two candidates if he ends up with the balance of power.

Even if their candidate gives them instructions, most of the electors would be entirely free to vote Dec. 16 for whomever they want—including someone other than Humphrey, Nixon or Wallace.

Most, however, are veteran party functionaries, made electors as a reward for long service, likely to stay loyal to their party and its candidate.

However, even if there is bargaining for electors' support there would be no guarantee that any candidate would get the necessary 270 votes.

If that happens, the Constitution provides that the House to be elected Nov. 5 would pick the new president from among the three top contenders, in terms of electoral votes. The new Senate would pick the vice president from among the top two.

Voting would start Jan. 6, right after Congress officially tabulates the votes cast Dec. 18 by the electors.

In the Senate, each senator would have one vote, with a majority needed to win. If the Humphrey-Muskie ticket places first or second, an expected Democratic majority in the Senate would likely elect Sen. Edmund S. Muskie as vice president.

But if the Democrats run third, the choice would be between Gen. Curtis E. LeMay and Gov. Spiro T. Agnew.

In the House, each state has one vote in picking a president. The vote is decided by each state's House delegation, with a majority in control. Thus, Nevada's one congressman would have as much to say about the outcome as New York's 41-member House delegation. An evenly split delegation—there are three now—might lose its vote completely.

To win in the House, a candidate must receive the votes of 26 of the 50 states. The District of Columbia, with no House seats, would have no vote.

With three candidates and the possibility of several evenly divided delegations, it might be very difficult for any candidate to get the needed 26 votes unless two of the three joined forces.

In addition, some congressmen, especially Southern Democrats, have indicated they might not vote with their party if the election goes to the House.

Brilliant voting would continue until one candidate got the necessary 26 votes. It took 36 ballots in 1800 for Thomas Jefferson to win out over Aaron Burr.

The only other time the House decided the presidency was in 1824 when John Quincy Adams was selected over Andrew Jackson.

If by noon on Jan. 20 the House had still failed to reach a decision, but the Senate had chosen a vice president, he would be sworn in as acting president—until the House decided.

It's never happened, but that doesn't mean it can't.

Something To Think About . . .

All Hallow's Eve

By JEAN CRIST

The doorbell rings repeatedly and you sense the urgency felt by your visitor. You hurriedly open the door and are greeted by many ghostly and ghastly figures who quickly belie their fearsomeness by the giggling that occasionally emits from behind the frightening masks.

"Trick or treat!" they shout, and you know that the parade of Halloween beggars has begun. You must have ready a pleasing array of goodies or you take the chance of having dire things happen to you and yours because you have not pleased the "spirits of the night."

How did this custom of celebrating Halloween with trick or treat, bobbing for apples and dressing in funny or frightening costumes become a part of our culture?

Well, it seems that it is primarily a pagan custom which, despite the efforts of the Christian church, has managed to survive to some degree. Students of folklore believe the customs of Halloween are derived from a combination of the Roman harvest festival and from Druidism. For the Romans it was the time to celebrate the threshing period and the preparation of food for the winter season. In Scotland and Ireland the Druids introduced nuts and apples as the predominate food for Halloween and figures of witches and skeletons depicted the evil influences of the time. For the Druids, it was the time when the spirit of the dead was prevalent. It was their New Year's Eve or Samhain and the night when they felt the spirits of those departed visited their kinsman for warmth and cheer before the cold of winter. Huge bonfires were lit to help these spirits find their way to the homes of their kinsman and also to kill and ward off witches and other evil spirits which might interfere.

The Christian church sought to supplant the Druid "festival of the dead" by introducing All Saints Day honoring all saints on Nov. 1. The preceding night was called the vigil of Hallowmas. This day is still celebrated in the Catholic and Anglican church.

But the Christian church was never able to completely erase some of the pagan customs that still remain as a result of the Druid influence.

These customs were brought to the United States as the English, Irish, and Scottish people immigrated here but celebration of Halloween did not become popular in this country until the latter part of the 19th century. The Scottish Halloween is called "Nuttercracker Night" because of the vast amounts of nuts and fruit consumed on that night. From them we have the association of apples with the occasion. The Irish gave us the games of ducking for apples and trying to bite them hanging from a string. The English were the first to dress up in masquerade type clothing and go from house to house demanding gifts of food or they would retaliate by throwing vegetables, tapping on windows, plugging up chimneys, or blocking doors with plows.

There were many customs associated with Halloween that are no longer practiced. For instance, in Ireland it was the custom on Halloween to "pull Kale." All the young people went to the garden and pulled stalks of Kale. This was brought in and if the stalk was crooked or straight that was the way the person's future husband or wife would be. If there was a large amount of dirt at the bottom of the stock the dowry would be large and the taste of the pith of the Kale indicated the temper of the spouse to be. Another custom was for the young girl to eat an apple in front of a mirror and supposedly the vision of her husband to be would be reflected on the mirror. In Ireland the young girl placed three nuts in the shell on the bars of a grate. If the nut cracks or jumps her lover is unfaithful, if they blaze or burn he has great regard for her and if they burn together it means they will be married.

The United States has adopted many of these customs which have been brought to this country without adopting the beliefs from which they originate. Halloween in the United States is merely a holiday, an excuse for exuberant youngsters to indulge in the fantasy they delight in and be whatever they want to be for a short time. For a very brief period the children tell the adults what to do by demanding goodies with the threat of tricks. Halloween parties are great fun for all ages, for even adults enjoy the fun of a masquerade.

So when your doorbell rings for the 10th time on Halloween, join in the spirit of the occasion and enjoy with the goblins the fun of pretending. And if those very small, stumbling figures don't make you smile and feel like hugging them, then you are missing one of the many things that make this life worth living.

Tangled U.S. Electoral System Could Bring Trouble

WASHINGTON (AP) — Citizens going to the polls next Tuesday thinking they will be voting for Richard M. Nixon or Hubert H. Humphrey, or George C. Wallace, will be wrong.

Instead, they actually will be voting for a group of people called presidential electors. The electors picked will decide who will be the next president—unless, for the third time in the nation's history, the issue gets passed on to the U.S. House of Representatives.

It's all because of the indirect system for election of a president developed by the framers of the Constitution.

Originally, the state legislatures picked the electors, but that was soon changed to give the job to the people.

In fact, the electors soon became rubber stamps, reflecting the result of the popular vote.

This year, however, because of the uncertainty caused by a three-way presidential race, there is more chance that the electors will act independently.

In order to be elected, a candidate must receive the votes of at least 270 of the 538 electors.

But with three major candidates this year, it is possible that none will win in enough states to be assured 270 electoral votes.

Each state has a number of electors equal to its senators and congressmen. For example, Maryland, with eight House members and two in the Senate, has 10 electoral votes.

The District of Columbia, with no congressional representation, was given three electoral votes by the 23rd Amendment.

In each state, voters selecting among the various presidential candidates are actually picking from slates of electors. In some, they vote for a whole slate, in others for individual electors. Whichever candidate gets the most votes in the state, his electors win. It doesn't matter if he gets 90 per cent, or receives one more vote than each of his opponents.

On Dec. 16, the electors selected in the general election meet in their respective state capitals to cast their votes for president and vice president.

With rare exceptions, electors have generally followed the instructions of their state's voters. But they don't have to. Only 17 states have any kind of legal instruction for electors, and only three provide penalties for those who fail to follow their mandate.

Thus, between the time they are elected and the time they vote, the electors could decide to vote for someone other than the candidate they represented on Election Day.

Wallace, whose candidacy is the chief reason for a possibly inconclusive outcome next Tuesday, has said that he will attempt to deal with one of the other two candidates if he ends up with the balance of power.

Even if their candidate gives them instructions, most of the electors would be entirely free to vote Dec. 16 for whomever they want—including someone other than Humphrey, Nixon or Wallace.

Most, however, are veteran party functionaries, made electors as a reward for long service, likely to stay loyal to their party and its candidate.

However, even if there is bargaining for electors' support there would be no guarantee that any candidate would get the necessary 270 votes.

If that happens, the Constitution provides that the House to be elected Nov. 5 would pick the new president from among the three top contenders, in terms of electoral votes. The new Senate would pick the vice president from among the top two.

Voting would start Jan. 6, right after Congress officially tabulates the votes cast Dec. 16 by the electors.

In the Senate, each senator would have one vote, with a majority needed to win. If the Humphrey-Muskie ticket places first or second, an expected Democratic majority in the Senate would likely elect Sen. Edmund S. Muskie as vice president.

But if the Democrats run third, the choice would be between Gen. Curtis E. LeMay and Gov. Spiro T. Agnew. In the House, each state has one vote in picking a president. The vote is decided by each state's House delegation, with a majority in control. Thus, Nevada's one congressman would have as much to say about the outcome as New York's 41-member House delegation. An evenly split delegation—there are three now—might lose its vote completely.

To win in the House, a candidate must receive the votes of 26 of the 50 states. The District of Columbia, with no House seats, would have no vote.

With three candidates and the possibility of several evenly divided delegations, it might be very difficult for any candidate to get the needed 26 votes unless two of the three joined forces.

In addition, some congressmen, especially Southern Democrats, have indicated they might not vote with their party if the election goes to the House.

Briloting would continue until one candidate got the necessary 26 votes. It took 36 ballots in 1800 for Thomas Jefferson to win out over Aaron Burr.

The only other time the House decided the presidency was in 1824 when John Quincy Adams was selected over Andrew Jackson.

If by noon on Jan. 20 the House had still failed to reach a decision, but the Senate had chosen a vice president, he would be sworn in as acting president—until the House decided.

It's never happened, but that doesn't mean it can't.

Something To Think About . . .

All Hallow's Eve

By JEAN CRIST

The doorbell rings repeatedly and you sense the urgency felt by your visitor. You hurriedly open the door and are greeted by many ghostly and ghastly figures who quickly belie their fearsomeness by the giggling that occasionally emits from behind the frightening masks.

"Trick or treat!" they shout, and you know that the parade of Halloween beggars has begun. You must have ready a pleasing array of goodies or you take the chance of having dire things happen to you and yours because you have not pleased the "spirits of the night."

How did this custom of celebrating Halloween with trick or treat, bobbing for apples and dressing in funny or frightening costumes become a part of our culture?

Well, it seems that it is primarily a pagan custom which, despite the efforts of the Christian church, has managed to survive to some degree. Students of folklore believe the customs of Halloween are derived from a combination of the Roman harvest festival and from Druidism. For the Romans it was the time to celebrate the threshing period and the preparation of food for the winter season. In Scotland and Ireland the Druids introduced nuts and apples as the predominate food for Halloween and figures of witches and skeletons depicted the evil influences of the time. For the Druids, it was the time when the spirit of the dead was prevalent. Huge bonfires were lit to help these spirits find their way to the homes of their kinsman and also to kill and ward off witches and other evil spirits which might interfere.

The Christian church sought to supplant the Druid "festival of the dead" by introducing All Saints Day honoring all saints on Nov. 1. The preceding night was called the vigil of Hallowmas. This day is still celebrated in the Catholic and Anglican church.

But the Christian church was never able to completely erase some of the pagan customs that still remain as a result of the Druid influence.

These customs were brought to the United States as the English, Irish, and Scottish people immigrated here but celebration of Halloween did not become popular in this country until the latter part of the 19th century. The Scottish Halloween is called "Nutteracker Night" because of the vast amounts of nuts and fruit consumed on that night. From them we have the association of apples with the games of ducking for apples and trying to bite them hanging from a string. The English were the first to dress up in masquerade type clothing and go from house to house demanding gifts of food or they would retaliate by throwing vegetables, tapping on windows, plugging up chimneys, or blocking doors with plows.

There were many customs associated with Halloween that are no longer practiced. For instance, in Ireland it was the custom on Halloween to "pull Kale." All the young people went to the garden and pulled stalks of Kale. This was brought in and if the stalk was crooked or straight that was the way the person's future husband or wife would be. If there was a large amount of dirt at the bottom of the stock the dowry would be large and the taste of the pith of the Kale indicated the temper of the spouse to be. Another custom was for the young girl to eat an apple in front of a mirror and supposedly the vision of her husband to be would be reflected on the mirror. In Ireland the young girl placed three nuts in the shell on the bars of a grate. If the nut cracks or jumps her lover is unfaithful, if they blaze or burn he has great regard for her and if they burn together it means they will be married.

The United States has adopted many of these customs which have been brought to this country without adopting the beliefs from which they originate. Halloween in the United States is merely a holiday, an excuse for exuberant youngsters to indulge in the fantasy they delight in and be whatever they want to be for a short time. For a very brief period the children tell the adults what to do by demanding goodies with the threat of tricks. Halloween parties are great fun for all ages, for even adults enjoy the fun of a masquerade.

So when your doorbell rings for the 10th time on Halloween, join in the spirit of the occasion and enjoy with the goblins the fun of "pretending." And if those very small, stumbling figures don't make you smile and feel like hugging them, then you are missing one of the many things that make this life worth living.

U Thant Starts 8th Year As U.N. Chief

By MAX HARRELSON
Associated Press Writer
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.
(AP) — Critics have called him naïve, unobjective and meddlesome. They have labeled him everything from Communist emissary to Washington's political broker.

U Thant shrugs it all off as a part of the game. As he prepares to begin his eighth year as U.N. secretary-general, the 59-year-old Burmese diplomat seems convinced that he has the support of a great majority of the 125 nations in the organization and that today's critics may be tomorrow's boosters.

This seems to be borne out by the praise he received during the round of policy declarations just completed in the General Assembly. His supporters far outnumbered those who found fault with him.

Thant is more fortunate than his two predecessors, Trygve Lie and Dag Hammarskjöld, in that he still enjoys good relations with the four big powers. The Russians broke with both Lie and Hammarskjöld eventually, and they were unable to serve as a bridge between East and West.

Most of the criticism of Thant has come from private citizens and the press, although he has on occasion been taken to task by high government officials, including President Johnson, former Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson of Canada, Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban and the leaders of Red China and North Vietnam.

When he began his second term Nov. 3, 1966, there was some doubt that Thant would serve out its five years. He had accepted re-election reluctantly after announcing he would not be available. One factor was an understanding that he had the right to speak his mind on world problems.

It now seems almost certain that he will remain until his term ends in 1971 and thus become the first man to serve in the post 10 years. He told a recent visitor that at present he has no plans to quit.

Thant believes that as secretary-general he can play a useful role in seeking peace in Vietnam and the Middle East and in trying to restore the East-West detente which was damaged by the Soviet military intervention in Czechoslovakia.

Another factor is his improved health. He has recovered from an ulcer attack which at one time forced him to curtail activities.

The former journalist-teacher regards himself as a sort of international gadfly who must reflect "the conscience of humanity." He believes that anyone who assumes such a role and speaks out bluntly on controversial matters has to expect a certain amount of hostile reaction.

Set RFK Foundation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., announced today the Kennedy family will create a $10 million Robert F. Kennedy Memorial Foundation to act "as a catalyst in the solution of pressing public problems."

Arbitration Urged In N.Y. School Strike

NEW YORK (AP) — A top mediator urges binding arbitration to settle the teachers strike and get all 1.1-million public school pupils back in classes and provide polling places for next week's elections.

State Mediation Board Chairman Vincent D. McDonnell said Monday that balloting next

Tuesday was in jeopardy if the walkout continued and added: "The plight of the democratic process should be so overwhelming as to cause the parties to submit the entire dispute to binding arbitration."

McDonnell served with former U.N. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg as a mediator in labor disputes with city police, firemen and sanitationmen.

There was no immediate comment on McDonnell's proposal by Albert Shanker, head of the 55,000-member United Federation of Teachers, or John M. Doar, president of the Board of Education.

A three-hour meeting Monday night between Doar, Shanker, and Schools Supt. Bernard E. Donovan ended with a report of "no progress."

Earlier in the day Donovan had expressed "some hope" that a solution to the impasse was near.

Locusts Increase

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) — Locusts in areas of the East African desert have "reached a plague level," reports a seven nation locust control organization. They are seeking additional financial aid from the United States, the Soviet Union and Britain.

Workhouse Arrests Set

CINCINNATI (AP) — Several arrests are expected at the Cincinnati Workhouse where investigations indicated that Sunday's prisoner skirmishes were diversionary—aimed at cloaking the beating of one inmate by several others.

Supt. George Studt said Tuesday he planned to file assault charges against at least five prisoners in the beating of Wayne Oney, 19, Chillicothe.

Oney underwent surgery earlier this week at General Hospital for removal of a damaged spleen.

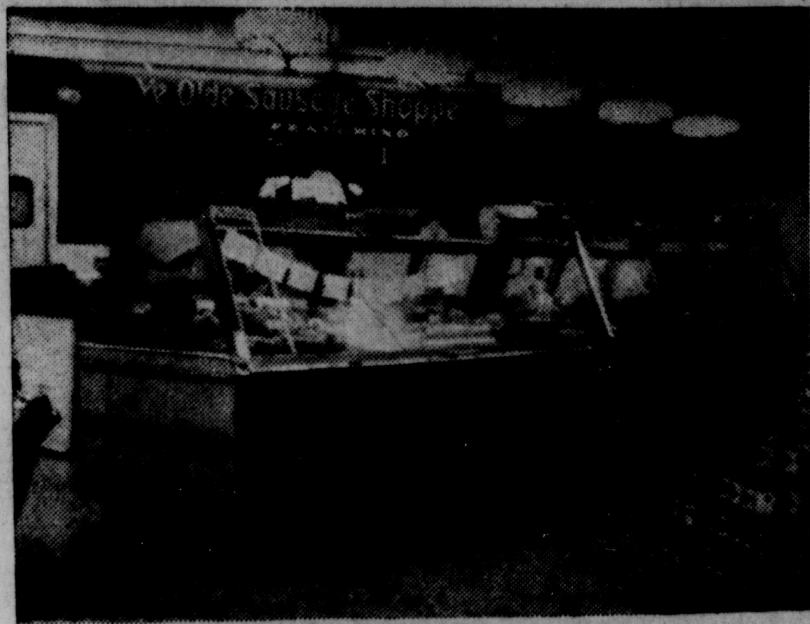

Guards said fights broke out among three prisoner groups as they returned to the main cell block from a movie Sunday. Studt said he believed that the group which pounced on Oney was the only fight "of consequence."

Westfall-Teays Valley Tilt Tops Final Football Action

The football season ends for Teays Valley, Westfall and Logan Elm Friday.

The highlight of the last weekend of grid action will take place on the Teays Valley field in a game between the Mustangs of Westfall and the Vikings.

Logan Elm ends its season playing Paint Valley in Scioto Valley Conference action.

The latter game will have no effect on the outcome of the league, since Westfall has already won the football title, and Pickett has the cellar all to itself.

PAINT Valley and Adena currently share third place in the SVC with two losses, and the Bearcats could possibly drop behind Adena should the Braves upset them.

Paint Valley's offense is geared around fleet Archie Harris, one of the fastest backs in the league. After losing an early season contest, the Bearcats went undefeated until they suffered successive losses at the hands of Union and Westfall.

The Bearcats were at one time ranked number eight in the Associated Press class A football poll.

Logan Elm coach Marc Albright has been experimenting with a new offensive formation this week which he may try in the game at Paint Valley.

Westfall has chalked up a number of firsts this season and will be seeking another one Friday. The Mustangs have never beaten Teays Valley in football.

But Dave Katterhenrich's team hopes to accomplish that Friday. Before this year Westfall had never beaten Logan Elm, and had never won an SVC championship.

EVERY offensive record on the books has been rewritten by this year's Mustang team.

The flu bug has hit the Westfall grid camp this week according to Katterhenrich and a number of players have been missing practices.

But he hopes to have everybody ready by Friday.

Teays Valley has been constantly improving this year. A young team, the Vikings tend to make mistakes late in the game that really hurt their chances of winning.

This year's only victory has been by a 12-0 margin over Logan Elm, a team that Westfall trounced, 72-0.

"We could be in a lot better shape physically," Teays Valley Coach Dick Kidwell reports. Dean Forsen is out with a shoulder injury. Rick Stewart may miss the game because of a knee injury and Chuck Parsons has also been ruled out of the game.

New Orleans Tops Oakland 124-119

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

All of a sudden, the runaway has turned into a race in the American Basketball Association's Western Division.

New Orleans added a little suspense to the championship race by handing Oakland its first loss in four games Tuesday night, 124-119, despite a 39-point showing by the Oaks' fabulous Rick Barry.

The victory, avenging New Orleans' only loss in three games, put the Bucks only a half game behind Oakland.

James Jones paced New Orleans with 26 points.

Meanwhile, Minnesota got a 34-point showing from Connie Hawkins and kept its record perfect with a 116-108 conquest of Miami, and New York rallied in the last half to whip Denver 108-89.

MAC Grid Leaders Are Named

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Kent Thompson of Miami and Sam Antonazzo of Western Michigan share Back of the Week honors in the Mid-American Conference.

And Ohio University's split end, Todd Snyder, is Lineman of the Week. He turned in a record-shattering performance while leading Ohio to a 42-12 romp over Dayton.

Snyder, a 6-foot-2, 185-pound junior tied a MAC record by catching 11 passes for 203 yards and one touchdown. The 203 yards set a new league record.

Thompson, Miami's junior quarterback from Covington, Ohio, ran 14 times for 112 yards and completed six of 14 passes for 58 yards in the Redskins' 31-7 rout of previously unbeaten Bowling Green.

Antonazzo, Western's star defensive back, tied a league record with four interceptions in a 40-12 victory over Marshall. The 5-11 native of Livonia, Mich., ran 109 yards with the four steals and also returned the opening kickoff 43 yards setting up the Broncos' first TD.

Snyder was chosen over Joe Green of Bowling Green; Jim Corrigan of Kent State; Bob Rieber of Miami; John Dennis of Toledo and Larry Stump of Western.

Other backs nominated were Larry Cella of Kent; Dave LeVeck of Ohio and Steve Beier of Toledo.

Jets, Chiefs Top Defense

NEW YORK (AP) — Running against the New York Jets and Kansas City Chiefs is getting their American Football League rivals nowhere fast.

It's no coincidence that the Jets and Chiefs, leaders in the AFL Eastern and Western divisions, respectively, also are 1-2 in defense against rushing.

New York has yielded 73.1 yards per game on the ground. The Chiefs' defensive unit has allowed 83.5 per contest.

The Houston Oilers are the over-all defensive leaders, having given up an average of 240.8 yards per game, including a passing low of 106.4. The Jets are right behind with a total yield of 241.9 per game.

San Diego continues to set the pace offensively. The Chargers have rolled up 415.7 yards per game in seven starts. Kansas City is the rushing leader, having ground out 183.3 yards per game.

OSU Picked To Defeat MSU Saturday

By DICK COUCH

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—It seems this fumbling pigskin prophet is the only guy on the offensive platoon who hasn't run to daylight yet. After last week's 40-18-1 mark the season record stands at 253-90-12—a backsliding, 713 pace.

We're shaking up our game plan this time around and here are the picks:

Kansas over Colorado: The Jayhawks keep coming back with the same game plan every week... six or seven touchdowns and a cloud of prairie dust.

Houston over Georgia: The Bulldogs should take a big bite out of Houston's 38 points per game average... but not enough to cage the Cougars.

Ohio State over Michigan State: The Spartans used up a season's quota of goal line stands upsetting Notre Dame last week.

Penn State over Army: What's in a name? Ask the Cadets after they've tangled with State's Steve Smead for 60 minutes.

Tennessee over UCLA: Tennessee's magic carpet... the new synthetic turf at Neyland Stadium... has tripped up better teams than the Gary Beban-less Bruins.

Texas over Southern Methodist: Chuck Hixson, SMU's slinging sophomore, won't have enough rope to lasso the leggy Longhorns.

California over Washington: California's dreaming about Roses but its defense is wide awake. The Bears have given up just four TDs in six games.

Elsewhere:

East-Notre Dame over Navy at Philadelphia; Syracuse over Holy Cross; Harvard over Pennsylvania; Yale over Dartmouth; Princeton over Brown; Cornell over Columbia.

Midwest-Purdue over Illinois; Michigan over Northwestern; Minnesota over Iowa; Indiana over Wisconsin; Oklahoma over Kansas State; Missouri over Oklahoma State; Nebraska over Iowa State; Bowling Green over Marshall; Dayton over Xavier; Ohio University over Western Michigan; Miami, Ohio over Toledo.

St. Bonaventure, LaSalle, Florida State On Probation

ST. LOUIS (AP)—St. Bonaventure, ranked third in the 1968 Associated Press basketball poll, LaSalle and Florida State have been placed on probation by the National Collegiate Athletic Association's policy council for rules infractions.

The probation bars them from postseason games—LaSalle for two years, Florida State and St. Bonaventure for one year.

The disciplinary action was announced Tuesday by Arthur J. Bergstrom, assistant executive director of the NCAA Council shortly after the council opened a three day meeting.

St. Bonaventure ran up a 23-game winning streak until beaten by North Carolina in the NCAA Eastern regional semifinals at Raleigh last spring.

LaSalle reached the NCAA championships at College Park, Md., before bowing to Columbia.

There was no immediate comment from coaches or officials of the schools involved.

However, Jim Harding, who was coach at LaSalle when some of the infractions occurred, admitted violation of rules in regard to scholarships. Harding now is with the Minnesota Pipers of the American Basketball Association.

Bergstrom said the LaSalle coaching staff was guilty of terminating an athletic scholarship for poor performance and threatening to repeat the action in other cases.

LaSalle's freshman coach also awarded token cash prizes to outstanding athletes, in contravention of NCAA rules, Bergstrom said, and it was found that several players holding down off-campus jobs were being paid for hours they did not work.

St. Bonaventure was penalized for giving a basketball prospect an expense-paid tour to the NCAA regional tourney at Raleigh, N.C., Bergstrom said. The school also housed and fed several of the prospect's friends during the tourney.

Florida State, highly ranked in the Southeast, was found guilty of organizing and conducting early practice sessions last spring for the benefit of prospective team members.

The school's coaches also conducted out of season practices which players, according to Bergstrom, considered mandatory. The coaches further broke NCAA rules by bringing two prospects to Panama City, Fla., on a sight-seeing tour at no cost to the athletes.

Bergstrom said at least one LaSalle athlete was told to withhold information from the NCAA.

Bill Reed Raps Woody Hayes On Grid Film

CHICAGO (AP)—Coach Wood Hayes of the second-ranked Ohio State Buckeyes drew the ire Tuesday of Big Ten Commissioner Bill Reed.

Reed, back in his office after attending the Olympics in Mexico City, responded to Hayes' inference last week that dirty play is not being called by officials in the conference.

Hayes contended that his sophomore quarterback, Rex Kern, was being unduly knocked around. He sent a film clip to Reed of Kern being encountered by a Northwestern player and declared publicly that "the officials should take charge — a player who deliberately hits a passer after he has released the ball should be kicked out of the game."

Coach Alex Agase said Hayes' action was impulsive, unjustified and unfair.

Reed told Chicago football writers Tuesday that the film clip was received "but there was not one word from Ohio State accompanying it."

Griffith Screams Robbery In Loss To Stan Hayward

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Stanley "Kitten" Hayward won an upset split 10-round decision over former middleweight champion Emile Griffith Tuesday night. Griffith and his manager, Gil Clancy, screamed they were robbed and would appeal the verdict to the Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission.

Referee Zack Clayton and judge Lou Tress each scored the fight 47-46 for Hayward, of Philadelphia. Judge Jack Styles had it 47-44 for Griffith. The Associated Press had it 48-43 for Griffith, who twice has held the middleweight title and was welterweight champ.

The bone of contention was Clayton's scoring of the 10th round. He carded it 5-5 under the Pennsylvania scoring system of five points must for the winner of a round.

Griffith, however, appeared to win the final round handily. In fact, he had Hayward staggering as the bell ended the fiercely waged fight.

Hayward admitted he had conceded the last round to the bustling New Yorker.

"I was not fighting my usual fight in the 10th round," he said, "because my trainer told me I had won the first six rounds and all I had to do to win was finish."

Griffith's manager also disclosed he had told the commission Tuesday afternoon about receiving an anonymous telephone call warning him, "Hayward will get help from the officials. I made the commission aware of this and was assured it would use its best officials."

Griffith, who ended Gypsy Joe Harris' 24 fight unbeaten streak here last August, was building for a crack at Nino Benvenuti, who took away his middleweight title last March.

Griffith weighed 156 and Hayward, the sixth ranking welterweight, 155, for the bout before 4,375 fans at the Spectrum.

THAT means the Vikings will be starting without three of their two-way regulars. Fortunately, Kidwell's squad has had no problems with illnesses this week.

The Vikings have been moving the ball much better recently. In the last three games, they have gained 179 yards, 226 yards and 297 yards.

"Westfall's entire backfield is the best all around that we have played this year," Kidwell says. "They have an awful lot of offense with John Furniss as their main runner."

New Orleans added a little suspense to the championship race by handing Oakland its first loss in four games Tuesday night, 124-119, despite a 39-point showing by the Oaks' fabulous Rick Barry.

The victory, avenging New Orleans' only loss in three games, put the Bucks only a half game behind Oakland.

James Jones paced New Orleans with 26 points.

Meanwhile, Minnesota got a 34-point showing from Connie Hawkins and kept its record perfect with a 116-108 conquest of Miami, and New York rallied in the last half to whip Denver 108-89.

Over in the rival NBA, Los Angeles nipped Atlanta 125-124, Chicago whipped Boston 103-97, New York turned back San Francisco 110-97 and Baltimore topped Milwaukee 129-112.

MAC Grid Leaders Are Named

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Kent Thompson of Miami and Sam Antonazzo of Western Michigan share Back of the Week honors in the Mid-American Conference.

And Ohio University's split end, Todd Snyder, is Lineman of the Week. He turned in a record-shattering performance while leading Ohio to a 42-12 romp over Dayton.

Snyder, a 6-foot-2, 185-pound junior tied a MAC record by catching 11 passes for 203 yards and one touchdown. The 203 yards set a new league record.

Thompson, Miami's junior quarterback from Covington, Ohio, ran 14 times for 112 yards and completed six of 14 passes for 58 yards in the Redskins' 31-7 rout of previously unbeaten Bowling Green.

Antonazzo, Western's star defensive back, tied a league record with four interceptions in a 40-12 victory over Marshall. The 5-11 native of Livonia, Mich., ran 109 yards with the four steals and also returned the opening kickoff 43 yards setting up the Broncos' first TD.

Snyder was chosen over Joe Green of Bowling Green; Jim Corrigan of Kent State; Bob Rieber of Miami; John Dennis of Toledo and Larry Stump of Western.

Other backs nominated were Larry Cella of Kent; Dave LeVeck of Ohio and Steve Beier of Toledo.

Jets, Chiefs Top Defense

NEW YORK (AP) — Running against the New York Jets and Kansas City Chiefs is getting their American Football League rivals nowhere fast.

It's no coincidence that the Jets and Chiefs, leaders in the AFL Eastern and Western divisions, respectively, also are 1-2 in defense against rushing.

New York has yielded 73.1 yards per game on the ground. The Chiefs' defensive unit has allowed 83.5 per contest.

The Houston Oilers are the over-all defensive leaders, having given up an average of 240.8 yards per game, including a passing low of 106.4. The Jets are right behind with a total yield of 241.9 per game.

San Diego continues to set the pace offensively. The Chargers have rolled up 415.7 yards per game in seven starts. Kansas City is the rushing leader, having ground out 183.3 yards per game.

OSU Picked To Defeat MSU Saturday

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—It seems this fumbling pigskin prophet is the only guy on the offensive platoon who hasn't run to daylight yet. After last week's 40-18-1 mark the season record stands at 253-90-12—a backsliding 713 pace.

We're shaking up our game plan this time around and here are the picks:

Kansas over Colorado: The Jayhawks keep coming back with the same game plan every week... six or seven touchdowns and a cloud of prairie dust.

Houston over Georgia: The Bulldogs should take a big bite out of Houston's 38 points per game average... but not enough to cage the Cougars.

Ohio State over Michigan State: The Spartans used up a season's quota of goal line stands upsetting Notre Dame last week.

Penn State over Army: What's in a name? Ask the Cadets after they've tangled with State's Steve Smead for 60 minutes.

Tennessee over UCLA: Tennessee's magic carpet... the new synthetic turf at Neyland Stadium... has tripped up better teams than the Gary Beban-less Bruins.

Texas over Southern Methodist: Chuck Hixson, SMU's slinging sophomore, won't have enough rope to lasso the leggy Longhorns.

California over Washington: California's dreaming about Roses but its defense is wide awake. The Bears have given up just four TDs in six games.

Elsewhere:

East—Notre Dame over Navy at Philadelphia; Syracuse over Holy Cross; Harvard over Pennsylvania; Yale over Dartmouth; Princeton over Brown; Cornell over Columbia.

Midwest—Purdue over Illinois; Michigan over Northwestern; Minnesota over Iowa; Indiana over Wisconsin; Oklahoma over Kansas State; Missouri over Oklahoma State; Nebraska over Iowa State; Bowling Green over Marshall; Dayton over Xavier; Ohio University over Western Michigan; Miami, Ohio over Toledo.

St. Bonaventure, LaSalle, Florida State On Probation

ST. LOUIS (AP)—St. Bonaventure, ranked third in the 1968 Associated Press basketball poll, LaSalle and Florida State have been placed on probation by the National Collegiate Athletic Association's policy council for rules infractions.

The probation bars them from postseason games—LaSalle for two years, Florida State and St. Bonaventure for one year.

The disciplinary action was announced Tuesday by Arthur J. Bergstrom, assistant executive director of the NCAA Council shortly after the council opened a three day meeting.

St. Bonaventure ran up a 23-game winning streak until beaten by North Carolina in the NCAA Eastern regional semifinals at Raleigh last spring.

LaSalle reached the NCAA championships at College Park, Md., before bowing to Columbia.

There was no immediate comment from coaches or officials of the schools involved.

However, Jim Harding, who was coach at LaSalle when some of the infractions occurred, admitted violation of rules in regard to scholarships. Harding now is with the Minnesota Pipers of the American Basketball Association.

Bergstrom said the LaSalle coaching staff was guilty of terminating an athletic scholarship for poor performance and threatening to repeat the action in other cases.

LaSalle's freshman coach also awarded token cash prizes to outstanding athletes, in contravention of NCAA rules, Bergstrom said, and it was found that several players holding down off-campus jobs were being paid for hours they did not work.

St. Bonaventure was penalized for giving a basketball prospect an expense-paid tour to the NCAA regional tournament at Raleigh, N.C., Bergstrom said. The school also housed and fed several of the prospect's friends during the tourney.

Florida State, highly ranked in the Southeast, was found guilty of organizing and conducting early practice sessions last spring for the benefit of prospective team members.

The school's coaches also conducted out of season practices which players, according to Bergstrom, considered mandatory. The coaches further broke NCAA rules by bringing two prospects to Panama City, Fla., on a sight-seeing tour at no cost to the athletes.

Bergstrom said at least one LaSalle athlete was told to withhold information from the NCAA.

Bill Reed Raps Woody Hayes On Grid Film

CHICAGO (AP)—Coach Wood Hayes of the second-ranked Ohio State Buckeyes drew the ire Tuesday of Big Ten Commissioner Bill Reed.

Reed, back in his office after attending the Olympics in Mexico City, responded to Hayes' inference last week that dirty play is not being called by officials in the conference.

Hayes contended that his sophomore quarterback, Rex Kern, was being unduly knocked around. He sent a film clip to Reed of Kern being encountered by a Northwestern player and declared publicly that "the officials should take charge — a player who deliberately hits a passer after he has released the ball should be kicked out of the game."

Coach Alex Agase said Hayes' action was impulsive, unjustified and unfair.

Reed told Chicago football writers Tuesday that the film clip was received "but there was not one word from Ohio State accompanying it."

Chris Long (37) and Mike Funk (52) are stalwarts on the Circleville High School reserve football team. Chris, the son of Mrs. Daisy Long, 223 Long St., is a sophomore back. Mike, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard M. Funk, 947 Circle Drive, is a junior center.

Griffith Screams Robbery In Loss To Stan Hayward

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Stanley "Kitten" Hayward won an upset split 10-round decision over former middleweight champion Emile Griffith Tuesday night. Griffith and his manager, Gil Clancy, screamed they were robbed and would appeal the verdict to the Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission.

Referee Zack Clayton and judge Lou Tress each scored the fight 47-46 for Hayward, of Philadelphia. Judge Jack Styles had it 47-44 for Griffith. The Associated Press had it 48-43 for Griffith, who twice has held the middleweight title and was welterweight champ.

The bone of contention was Clayton's scoring of the 10th round. He carded it 5-5 under the Pennsylvania scoring system of five points must for the winner of a round.

Griffith, however, appeared to win the final round handily. In fact, he had Hayward staggering as the bell ended the fiercely waged fight.

Hayward admitted he had conceded the last round to the bustling New Yorker.

"I was not fighting my usual fight in the 10th round," he said, "because my trainer told me I had won the first six rounds and all I had to do to win was finish."

Griffith's manager also disclosed he had told the commission Tuesday afternoon about receiving an anonymous telephone call warning him, "Hayward will get help from the officials. I made the commission aware of this and was assured it would use its best officials."

Griffith, who ended Gypsy Joe Harris' 24 fight unbeaten streak here last August, was building for a crack at Nino Benvenuti, who took away his middleweight title last March.

Griffith weighed 156 and Hayward, the sixth ranking welterweight, 155, for the bout before 4,375 fans at the Spectrum.
